The Tax on Fools
Romantic Oil
American Not Mexican
One Surprised Briton

—By Arthur Brisbane—

(Copyright, 1926, by Star Company)

THE ITALIAN GOVERNMENT runs a lottery, as do many other nations. The latest drawing yielded a government profit of five million dollars, gambling excitement being increased by an individual predicting winning numbers. The numbers didn't win, but in Naples, alone, the people spent fifteen million lire for tickets.

In Italy they call the lottery "The tax on fools."

WE NEED NOT criticise Italy, for in this country, according to statistics, race track fools tax themselves eight hundred million dollars a year, handing the money to bookmakers.

And get rich quick schemers tax the American public, especially women, a thousand millions more.

THE MARVEL IS that the people have any money left when the gamblers and the get-rich-quick schemers finish with them. It is all for the best probably. He who loses his savings must continue to work hard. Hard work, not people living on their incomes in idleness, is what the country needs.

EVEN THE prosaic oil business is romantic. You know of the oil well that the Rockefellers have "brought in" within the Arctic circle. It would cost fifty millions to run in a pipe line. But at least the Rockefellers know that there is an Arctic reserve.

AT VENTURA, on the Pacific Coast, the Shell Oil Company's docks were washed away. Its tankers could load no oil.

Associated Oil said: "Bring your tank ships here, we'll load them." Associated runs a pipe line half a mile out on the bottom.

FRENCH STAR FORCED TO LIMIT IN VICTORY FAINTS AFTER GAME

Cannes, Feb. 16.—Suzanne Lenglen fainted after the tennis doubles match here today and had to be assisted off the court. Miss Helen Wills, without a look at Suzanne, shook hands with Mlle. Vlasto, Suzanne's partner, and then walked off the court. Miss Wills and Mlle. Contostavos lost the double, 6—4, 8—6.

Cannes, France, Feb. 16 (A. P.).—Miss Helen Wills' quest for world supremacy in tennis has failed—but failed gloriously. The 20-year-old American champion went down today before the racquet wizardry of Suzanne Lenglen, hailed by many as the greatest woman tennis player who ever stepped on a court.

Suffering from a gash in the knee, which she sustained in a fall yesterday, Miss Wills fought the redoubtable Suzanne as she has never been fought since her memorable default to Molla Mallory after the loss of a set at Forest Hills in 1921.

The score of today's match, the final in the Carlton tournament was 6—3, 8—6. It was played before a crowd that packed the stands, with hundreds clamoring at the gates, unable to gain admittance. Some had stood in line all night to be sure of witnessing the clash of the champions.

Mlle. Lenglen won three games in the first set at love and one in the

CRAVEN FLED U. S. AT REQUEST OF ENVOY

Washington, Feb. 16 (I.N.S.).—An appeal will be taken to Federal Court by the Labor Department decision to deport the Countess Cathcart, her counsel, Wilton J. Lambert, announced today. Counsel will ask for a writ of habeas corpus in New York to test the power of the Labor Department to exclude foreigners under the immigration law.

William A. Deford, also of counsel for the countess, left for New York this afternoon to be prepared to file the court test.

A decision late today against her appeal from deportation was expected in official circles.

New York, Feb. 16.—Out of the boiling pot of the affairs of the Countess of Cathcart came the disclosure today that her erstwhile partner in "moral turpitude"—the Earl of Craven—had fled the United States to Canada at the request of the British ambassador.

A suggestion to Vera from the same source and to the same effect was scorned by the "immigrant."

And while the Countess awaited at Ellis Island the decision of the department of labor as to whether she should be excluded because of "moral turpitude," although the Earl had been allowed to enter, her countrymen at home were dragging the case into the realm of international politics.

Captain O. J. Fairfax, M. P., announced that he would question Foreign Minister Chamberlain upon the matter in the House of Com

Darrows, who was unable to give a coherent story of what occurred, was held by the police pending an investigation.

As far as could be learned, the young woman drank the contents of a bottle of cleaning fluid in one of the offices in the building.

BROTHER-IN-LAW OF QUIGLEY AND FOUR POLICE ARE FREED

Nine of the 27 defendants in the Chelsea rum conspiracy trial at Federal Court were found not guilty by the jury at the direction of Judge Brewster and upon the suggestion of U. S. District Attorney Harold P. Williams this afternoon.

The men found not guilty, who were on trial with Mayor Lawrence F. Quigley, included his brother-in-law, William Lawlor, and Inspector George Finn, whose little girl celebrated her birthday today.

They were: Lieutenant John M. Bartley, Inspector Finn and Patrolmen Robert McCarthy and Joseph Flynn of the Chelsea police department; William Lawlor, David Hickey, James Sullivan, Walter Doyle and Edwin Forchner.

The action was taken after Attorney Williams had caused a surprise by announcing that the Government rested its case, following the cross-examination of Jacob "Jack" London, former Chelsea liquor dealer.

The action came with startling suddenness, as the trial had been under way only a short time, the morning session having been stimulated because of the unexplained absence of William J. Wall of Chelsea, one of the defendants.

Judge Brewster issued a habeas corpus on which a deputy marshal brought Wall into court, being found him in the kitchen of his home on Lewis street. Wall explained that he was ill. He was placed in the custody of the U. S. marshal and at the adjournment of court today, was remanded to the marshal's care by Judge Brewster, under way only a short time, the Gloucester, Feb. 16.—Six firemen were overcome and 200 women and girls forced to flee today in a fire that destroyed the three-story wooden building housing the W. D. Brown Department Store in Main street, threatening the entire business district.

The sweeping flames had not been brought under control four hours after the blaze was discovered.

Aid was called from Manchester, Rockport and Essex, but the fire, roaring up through the old wooden building, spread rapidly in the National House Furnishing Company

TRUCK KILLS B. U. GIRL AS THRONG LOOKS ON

Thelma Read, 23 years old, a student at the Boston University School of Religious Education, was instantly killed before the eyes of nearly a hundred pedestrians walking at the corner of Bowdoin and Beacon streets today, when she slipped from a sidewalk curb beneath the wheels of a truck heavily loaded with crushed stone.

According to the police the girl was about to cross the street at a point where the truck was backing towards the curbstone to deliver its load of stone.

The girl is believed to have slipped on a slippery spot in the road. She was seen to fall and before any warning could be given to the operator of the truck the rear wheels had passed over her head.

Anthony J. Jodice of Cameo avenue, Somerville, operator of the truck, was detained at the Brookline street station, pending completion of the police investigation.

mons and that he is conferring with the Home Office concerning "the expediency of instituting suitable reprisals."

Captain Fairfax also asked the Foreign Office to institute negotiations with the United States to insure that the granting of a visa by an American consul is final guarantee of entry of foreign citizens, unless an offence against the immigration laws is committed after the visa has been granted.

Meanwhile the Countess was telling newspaper men of her elopement and renunciation of the Earl, and the Earl's wife was adding a word or two about her intention to leave New York.

Seemingly forecasting the decision was the refusal of the Board of Immigration Review to permit her to leave Ellis Island under bond until the deportation ruling is made.

In Washington Senator Royal S. Copeland talked to the Senate about the "moral turpitude" snag that tripped up the Countess and missed the Earl.

"Every citizen must blush with shame over the antics of the Labor department in this connection," he said, among other things.

And in Montreal the Earl rested, safe, free; content to be—

"Where there ain't no moral turpitude
And a man can raise a thirst."

The Earl is staying at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel in the Canadian city, and, after he has regained the breath lost in his furious dash away from the United States, he will begin arrangements to return to Bermuda.

Unless permission is granted him by Ellis Island officials to leave from the port of New York, he will leave from some Canadian port. But the St. Lawrence is frozen solid, and he'll have to wait for a thaw if he leaves by water from Montreal. Ellis Island will say today whether the confessed adulterer may go through New York on his way to Bermuda.

The Earl learned that a steamer sails for Bermuda from Halifax on Feb. 26. Lady Craven, however, has reservations on Saturday's steamer from New York to Bermuda.

EARL SAYS NEVERMORE.

The Earl talked a bit himself, after sending a wire to his wife that he was safe after "a most exciting trip."

He was asked if he would go back to the United States, and, quoth the Craven, "Nevermore."

He thought it was all a lot of publicity, don't you know, to help the Countess and her play, "Ashes." He also thought it, now that he was reminded of it, "as absolute outrage."

And again he made open confession—which is good for the soul

"I can't refuse to admit I was a co-respondent in a divorce suit; can I?" he demanded.

VERA GETS TIP.

Mrs. Gordon Carr, one of the good friends of the Countess, who did not desert her in her trouble, wired Secretary of Labor Davis and also the British Embassy at Washington that she would put up a bond in any amount to obtain Lady Cathcart's freedom—but received no answer.

Lady Cathcart is said to have received a wire from the British Embassy suggesting more or less delicately that she be a nice little girl and go on home without making any more fuss—thus clearing the situation. The wire struck fire.

She tore it into fragments and stamped on them. And then she received the newspapermen, graciously, smiling, answering all questions.

"The Earl of Craven doesn't belie his name, does he?" she asked.

She smiled a bit; and then her mouth hardened.

LOVED HIM ONCE.

"But I'm no Craven," she said. "My makeup is much different. I'm a fighter; and fighters do not know how to run."

Craven's trip to Canada seemed actually to amaze her.

"There is no feeling in me now for Craven," she said, "no feeling but contempt.

"Ah, I did love him once. It was a fine, deep, tender love; and he loved me."

"Don't you think it was immoral to love a man who was the husband of another woman?" a reporter asked.

"Isn't it more immoral for a woman to live with a husband she does not love, than to live with a man—no matter who he is—whom she does love?

"And then, please remember this. I didn't steal him from his wife. He was over age; and he had lived with many women before he went away with me. I didn't make him come. He wanted to; as much as I wanted him.

CALLS HIM FICKLE.

"But he is quite fickle. There were many women in his life, after he left me. There was a woman in South Africa who fascinated him—the woman who succeeded me. He's still mad about her.

"Why, only a few weeks ago, while he and his wife were in Bermuda, he wrote me about this woman, saying he still loved her. He added that he hoped some day he would love his wife.

"I feel sorry for Lady Craven—sorry that he never did love her, and probably never will."

She laughed, with a little bitterness.

"You reporters have made Craven a very wealthy man. He isn't wealthy. In fact, he is still an undischarged bankrupt. His estates produce no revenue. His mother has all the money, and she knows her son too well to let him have more than he actually needs.

"Everybody says we lived on his estate in South Africa. He has no estate there. It was on my property that we lived."

Countess May Enter Under Bond Pending Law Tilt

Washington, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—The decision of the Labor Department in the case of the Countess of Carthcart will be approved by Secretary Davis himself, instead of the Assistant Secretary in charge of immigration matters as usually is the case.

This, it was explained, would make futile any efforts of the Countess to appeal directly to the Secretary in event of an adverse decision, a course which had been planned.

The only recourse for the Countess, in the event of an adverse decision, would be an appeal through the district court at New York for a writ of habeas corpus, which, if issued, would bring the case up for judicial review on the law itself. During trial of that issue the Countess might be admitted into the country under bond with the possibility that long litigation might ensue with appeals through the higher courts.

Women Leaders Call on Curran to Resign

New York, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Six women, representing different Women's organizations, suggested to immigration Commissioner Curran today that he resign, after they had conferred with him in behalf of Vera, Countess Cathcart, who is being held in deportation proceedings at Ellis Island.

The women were Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch of the Civic Club; Doris Stevens, wife of Dudley Field Malone and vice-president of the National Women's Party; Ruth Hale, president of the Lucy Stone League; Helen E. Todd of the Women's Alliance; Mrs. Mary Field of the Housewives' League, and Mrs. Anna Strunsky Walling of the Civic Club.

The women told Commissioner Curran that they would carry the case to President Coolidge and members of the Cabinet, to have the immigration laws properly interpreted in the future.

The women called on Countess Cathcart, assuring her of their support. Commissioner Curran said emphatically that he would not resign.

"You are firing at the wrong target," he said. "I am forbidden by orders of the Secretary of Labor to make recommendations in any case."

WOULD SEIZE FOOD, FUEL TO FIGHT BIG MONOPOLY

Senator William J. Francis, at a legislative hearing today, charged there exists a "certain group of men in the State who, at any given time, can create a food shortage and raise the price." He urged that the Governor and the Mayors of ten cities be empowered to seize and distribute food and fuel in times of emergency. The Boston Fruit Exchange and a representative of retail coal dealers opposed the bill.

WHO GIVES A HOOT NOW! IT'S BALLY 'ARD ON THE EARL IF HE CAWN'T COME BACK

Lady Craven, wife of the Earl of Craven, who fled to Canada to escape arrest in the Cathcart immigration tangle. She calls the Countess "a common creature"

Earl of Craven and Countess Cathcart, snapped while they were elopers five years ago. It was this episode that led to the present plight of both. The Earl has since repented his act, gone back to his wife and declares he now "doesn't give a hoot" for what happen to the Countess. On the other hand, the latter has called the Earl a "coward" for fleeing under present fire.

Youthful Earl of Craven —pawn of two feminine hearts. Safe in his Montreal haven he vents his spleen on Uncle Sam and says "Never again!" when asked if he'll return to the U. S. A.

As Countess Cathcart pictures herself—a stoned and branded woman. She calls her detention by immigration officials an "outrage" and intends to "fight it out to the end." Her appeal for fair play led to action against the Earl and started a nation-wide demand for a "single standard" of morals. Her case is still in abeyance.

Mrs. F. Gordon Carr, a travelling companion, and the Countess aboard the liner on which they came to Boston. When they reached New York Mrs. Carr and rest of the party was allowed to land, but the barn were promptly lowered against the Countess on the grounds of "moral turpitude." And then came the storm.

FIGHT FIRE ON 40TH FLOOR OF SKYSCRAPER

New York, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Forty stories above Broadway firemen today waged a successful and spectacular battle against fire in the $30,000,000 Equitable Building, one of the largest office structures in the world.

Fire Chief John Menion described the fire as the "highest fire in a building that the world has ever known."

Most of the damage, estimated at $50,000, was on the thirty-fourth and thirty-fifth-floor offices of Daniel Guggenheim and the American Smelting and Refining Company.

Four engineers and repairmen were trapped in the penthouse, a three-story superstructure on the roof, chiefly containing elevator machinery, and were found by firemen on a narrow ledge, forty-three stories or nearly 400 feet above street level.

The only ladder available was a short one, which was placed on the shoulders of the tallest fireman to reach the trapped men.

More than 100 charwomen, carrying mops and pails were driven from the building.

Five other firemen, suffering from smoke, were attended by ambulance surgeons.

FAMILIES OF 851 DEAD FILE $1,800,000 CLAIMS

New York, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—The families of the officers and men who went down on the submarine S51 off Block Island last Summer have filed claims with the government totaling $1,800,000, W. C. Parkin, special claims commissioner, announced today.

SECOND MAN ON DEATH TRUCK IS NAMED

Pawtucket, R. I., Feb. 16.—The second man on the liquor-laden truck from which the bullet-riddled body of Joseph Casey was hurled, came to light today when police revealed him as Alfred Senior of Pawtucket.

Much mystery was thrown about the arrest of Senior and at first his name was not given out. Today the police declared that Senior admits having been on the truck with the driver just before the fatal shooting.

He denied, however, that he was on the truck when Casey was killed. No charge has been made against Senior, according to the police.

Casey, for many hours unidentified, was identified finally by his wife and their ten-year-old son, but the story leading up to his killing is still held only in fragments, with the police endeavoring to piece it together.

One man, Joseph Lemoine, of Prospect street, Manville, who has admitted driving the death truck on part of its murder journey, is held in $1,000 on a liquor charge in the case.

It is now believed that the slaying of Casey came out of an attempt of the rum ring to run to safety a store of liquor before the grand jury liquor investigation begins next Thursday.

On the way to a new cache, according to the piecing of the story, the hi-jackers "jumped" the rum-runners, with the result that Casey met his death.

Pay Raise for Somerville's High Teachers

Somerville junior high school teachers were voted an increase of $100, retroactive to January 1 last, and another $100 increase September 1.

High school teachers will be given proportional increases later. The finance committee of the school board refused the demand made September 24, 1924, for a $300 a year increase for all teachers.

HARVARD'S HELP ANGERS YALE

Yale was up in arms today at the "ill taste" of editors of the Harvard Crimson, who distributed 1,000 copies of their paper in New Haven ostensibly to help out, by editorial comment, the campaign of the Yale Daily News against compulsory chapel.

"The approach to the problem does not lie through such hot-headed comment and disrespect as has come from the pen of Mr. Beebe," declared the Yale editors today, not thankful at all for the attempt to "help them out."

The Crimson editorial was by Lucius Beebe, Harvard junior, who was formerly a student at Yale.

"Abolishment of compulsory chapel at Yale will be the final step in the transition process which marks the birth of a new and greater Yale," wrote Beebe.

Harvard has voluntary chapel attendance.

ACTRESS DIVES 14 STORIES TO DEATH

New York, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Pauline Armitage, an actress, who had been in ill health, leaped from the fourteenth floor of her room in the Shelton Hotel on Lexington avenue today and was killed instantly.

Miss Armitage, clad only in a pink night dress, landed on the Forty-ninth street side of the building in front of the servants' entrance.

The manager and police, at first unable to identify the body, found the room by the screams of Valerie Brandt, Miss Armitage's maid, while they were in the corridors. The maid, who had served Miss Armitage four years, had stayed with her at the hotel for the last month because of the actress' illness.

She told the police that when she went to answer the telephone she heard Miss Armitage move, and turning, saw her leap from the window before she could reach her.

Chamberlain Brown, theatrical agent, said Miss Armitage was born in Nashville, Tenn. Her debut was made with Leo Ditrichstein in "The King," about eight years ago. Her next engagement was a year later in "Seven Days' Leave." In 1921 she took over from Dorothy Dalton the leading role in "Aphrodite." In this play she appeared in Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia and other cities. She appeared with John Drew in "The Cabbird" and subsequently with Helen Hayes in "The Wren."

"DUCHESS of ALCOHOL"

By Hilda Stone Federal Prisoner

Hilda Caught, Gets Night in Jail and $500 Fine

SYNOPSIS.

Hilda Stone of West Halifax, Vt., formerly a stenographer in Athol, Mass., turned bootlegger to help her husband out of a financial squeeze in his lumber business.

Groping for a solution, she decided that rum-running offered "the quickest means for big money." She says she was no worse as a liquor smuggler than are the public officials and many of our finest families who order and drink smuggled liquor.

Initiated into the mysteries of the traffic and an expert motorist, she made rapid progress. She had her cars rigged with secret compartments to conceal costly cargoes of fancy liquors for the "blue blood" customers of Mr. Blank, a Boston buyer.

She had hairbreath escapes. She was under fire at times by the border patrol. She makes disclosures and timely observations of the underground activities that are baffling the Federal government in its attempt to enforce prohibition. These give her remarkable story a national scope and interest.

CHAPTER XIV.

Montpelier, Vt., Feb. 16.—There is an end to everything—even bootlegging.

That may bring a laugh. It does sound absurd if one alludes to the traffic as a whole, but I refer to bootlegging on an individual basis.

Most bootleggers, I suppose, sooner or later, will find their necks in the noose as I did, but there will be others, and in greater number, to replace them.

As one who successfully defied the law and profited for months, it is my opinion that the evil will never be properly checked, not alone stamped out, under the present faulty system.

There is too much insincerity.

There is too much evasion, deception and hypocrisy.

There is too much back-handed official sanction, too much political pull. I've been through the mill and know. The soft-pedal is almost worn out.

The Federal government is doling out millions and scarcely making a dent. And why? Because public officials and men of influence haven't lost their taste for liquor. They must have it, and, in order to make sure of a supply, they must exercise their influence in the wrong direction.

What does that mean? That many of our best citizens become confirmed votaries of bootleggers, accessories before and after the fact — lawbreakers every time they accept a bottle or just a drink, whether they pay for it or not.

With this influence working to encourage and protect bootleggers and rum-runners, how can a handful of enforcement officers, here and there, hope to stop the traffic?

These are but the random observations of a woman bootlegger. But they're backed by common sense and experience and an underground study of conditions, the sort of glimpses the great majority of people can never hope to obtain.

An amendment permitting sale of wines and beer seems the only solution. Unless it comes you're going to have bootlegging and on a constantly increasing scale.

While there is a demand there is bound to be a supply.

But here I am preaching again, when I started to tell you of my

NEPONSET OFFICER INJURED

Four Taken Off French Craft in Heavy Sea by Steamer Harcouvar

Praises of American seamen were sung in Boston today when the liner West Harcouvar arrived at the Mystic Docks with the captain and three sailors of the French schooner Muguet which foundered in mid-ocean.

While French Consul-General J. C. J. Flamand translated, the Frenchmen poured out their story of the rescue which occurred off the Azores after the Muguet, bound for St. Pierre, Miquelon, had come within 500 miles of her destination and then, been driven back hundreds of miles eastward by North Atlantic gales.

Instead of medals for their heroism Captain McLain and the crew of the West Harcouvar will probably get a German police dog, Iuiu, that they also saved from the schooner.

The Muguet, a two-master, carried a cargo of salt when she sailed from a French port on January 12. As the vessel sprang leaks in the storm, the salt became soaked and added to the ship's weight until her condition was helpless. After the rescue the schooner was set afire to prevent her becoming a menace to shipping. Outstanding in the rescue were Chief Officer Patrick Driscoll of Neponset, who was injured, and Seamen Hayen, Bjornsgaard, Vengison, Chiconi, Corbett and Svenson who manned the lifeboat in heavy seas.

Two of the schooner's crew were washed overboard and lost before the West Harcouvar sighted her.

Legislation giving members of the Boston police department who went out on strike pensions according to the number of years in which they served in the department was urged at a State House hearing today by Representative Hugh H. Garvity of Boston. The speaker contended that many of the men had given the best years of their lives to the service of the city. Senator John W. McCormack of South Boston and Representative Francis X. Coyne of Boston favored the bill. H. Murray Pakulski, assistant corporation counsel of Boston, opposed the measure.

U. S. DEFENSES LIKE '61, SAYS MITCHELL

"We are putting $500,000,000 a year into our army and our navy. In return for this investment we are not getting ten cents on the dollar, as far as regards our national defense."

So former Colonel William Mitchell asserted at the Copley-Plaza today.

"The United States, in its national defense, is still sticking to Civil War methods," he asserted.

"The World War wasn't a war; it was an orgy of killing. The theory of war today is to attack vital centres through the air. Masses of men shouldn't be used, save as a last resort. Their value lies in holding the ground captured by the air forces.

"Sea power, as formerly understood, is stopped. Sea lanes now are controlled by submarines and airplanes. What is necessary in the United States is that the air part of our national defence be developed by itself, and not as part of the army and navy. The development of aviation in this country has practically been stopped by the army."

ALL NATIONS' SINGERS ENTERED IN CONTEST

Singers from practically every country in the world are rehearsing daily for the International Song Contest to be conducted in Symphony Hall, Monday afternoon, February 22, under the auspices of the Community Service of Boston and the Women's Municipal League.

Included among the contestants will be group singers from Finland, Germany, Lithuania, Poland, Portugal and Sweden.

At the rehearsal at the Hotel Brunswick, the choruses all appeared in their national costumes and the hotel was never before the setting for so vivid a color scheme. At the contest itself the singers will also appear in their national costumes. Most of the choruses are of mixed voices, but there will be wholly male choruses, Swedish and German.

This is the third such contest to be staged in Boston. The requirements are that each group sing one song in its native language and one in English.

The song in English is to be the "Night Song" by William C. Heilman for the mixed voices, and "The Fatherland" by F. Damrosch for the male choruses.

COOLIDGE TO FIGHT FOR McCAMANT JUDGESHIP

Washington, Feb. 16 (I.N.S.).—President Coolidge served notice on the Senate today that he intends to fight for his nominations.

It was announced at the White House that the nomination of Judge Wallace McCamant of Oregon to a circuit judgeship, will not be withdrawn, as requested by administration leaders there because of the strong opposition to him.

Judge McCamant, who nominated Mr. Coolidge for the Vice-Presidency at Chicago in 1920, recently caused a Senatorial furore by declaring he did not consider Theodore Roosevelt "a good American."

12,000 FURRIERS STRIKE; 2,000 N. Y. SHOPS HIT

New York, Feb. 16 (A.P.)—Twelve thousand members of the Furriers' Union, employed in 2,000 shops in New York city, struck today, following discord between the union and the Associated Fur Manufacturers at the expiration of their agreement January 31.

A. AND P. DENIES CHANGE OF OWNERSHIP

John A. Hartford, president of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, declares there is no truth in the published report that control of the A. & P. company is to be acquired by the National Food Products Company.

"Substantially, all of the common stock, and the majority of the preferred stock of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company is owned by the management, and its employes," declares Mr. Hartford. "No sale of the company, or the control of its stock is now, or ever has been contemplated. The recent reorganization of the company was for the sole purpose of providing a plan for the acquisition and stock in the company by its employes.

"The company regrets very much the publication of that misleading and unfounded statement in the public press. This statement is issued to correct any wrong impression which thes statements may have made."

LOTTA'S FRIEND PLEADS FOR JEWELS

A new phase of the legal tangle over the estate of Lotta Crabtree was revealed in Suffolk Probate Court today when Mrs. Grace Kramer of New York asked Judge Prest to determine how much she owes the Crabtree estate.

Mrs. Kramer, a life-long friend of the late actress, said she wanted incidentally to get back her jewels locked in a vault with Lotta's valuables.

Mrs. Kramer, accompanied by her son, Captain Arthur J. P. Chase, U. S. A., was without counsel.

She said that in 1911 she borrowed $8,000 from Lotta on two $4000 notes giving as collateral fgor one a mortgage on the Kramer home in Swampscott and for the other her jewelry.

In 1922, she said, Lotta as a gift deducted $1,500 from one of the notes. In 1923, in the presence of Captain Chase, Mrs. Kramer said Lotta wrote off the entire other $4,000 note.

Mrs. Kramer said she had never paid any interest for Lotta would never have accepted it. Later Mrs. Kramer sold the Swampscott house, Lotta, she said, being aware of the sale and allowing it to go as unmortgaged.

Mrs. Kramer said she had offered to pay the $2,500 she still owes on condition that the executors of the estate give her back her jewelry. But they, she said, replied that they had no records of the $1,500 and $4,000 gifts from Lotta and that Mrs. Kramer owes the estate $8,000.

Judge Prest said that to act as arbiter in such a case was outside his province and suggested that Mrs. Kramer bring a bill in equity.

$100,000,000 FOR AIRCRAFT

Washington, Feb. 16 (A.P.)—The House Naval Committee has virtually agreed upon a five-year building program for the Naval Air Service to cost $100,000,000.

This is about two-fifths of the amount recommended by Rear-Admiral Moffett, Naval Air chief, as necessary to provide an adequate air service for any emergency.

Final decision on the program is expected by the committee tomorrow and, if adopted, a bill to authorize this expenditure probably will be introduced in the next day or so by Chairman Butler.

In its present form, the program would authorize an annual expenditure of $20,000,000 for five years and provide two dirigibles, each three times the size of the wrecked Shenandoah, one thousand new planes and an appropriation, the amount undetermined, for the navy to contract with the Aircraft Development Corporation, backed by Ford interests, for an all-metal dirigible.

Representative Vinson of Georgia, ranking Democrat on the committee, said today that members were practically united in their views.

Thugs Slay Two Police

Pulaski, Tenn., Feb. 16 (I.N.S.)—Two policemen were slain here today in a gun battle with thugs, who apparently came to rob the bank of postoffice. The thugs ambushed Policemen George Dodson and Bud Jackson. Bloodhounds were rushed here to take up the trail.

SEA HI-JACKERS LOOT SHIP

Lunenberg, N. S., Feb. 16 (A.P.)—Captain Arthur Whynot, master of the schooner Arthur J. Balfour, which has just arrived here, relates a story of being boarded by hijackers off Rum Row.

Eleven hundred cases of Scotch whiskey were pirated and the captain and his crew were held prisoners on their own ship for 12 days by armed buccaneers.

Captain Whynot says the hijackers came along side the Balfour in a vessel disguised as a United States coastguard cutter. They over-powered the Nova Scotian crew and transferred the whiskey to the "cutter."

JULIA O'CONNOR, PHONE UNION HEAD, IS BRIDE

Mrs. Charles A. Parker, formerly Miss Julia O'Connor, No. 64 George street, Medford, president of Telephone Operators' Union. She became the bride of a Boston newspaperman today.

Miss Julia O'Connor, president of the telephone operators' union, was married today at St. James' Rectory to Charles A. Parker, a Boston newspaperman.

Rev. Fr. Albert J. Shea of St. James' Church was the officiating priest.

Miss O'Connor was attended by Mrs. Mary Wynne of Springfield, as bridesmaid. William J. Fitzpatrick of No. 218 South street, Jamaica Plain, night city editor of the Boston Evening American, was best man.

Following the ceremony the couple left for New York.

Miss O'Connor, who lived at No. 64 George street, Medford, is head of the telephone operators' branch of the International Electrical Workers' Union, and led the operators in their big strike of two and a half years ago.

GAY LIFE LURED BANK LOOTER

Portland, Me., Feb. 16 (A.P.)—Philip A. Smardon, former teller of the First National Bank here, was at liberty today on $8,500 bail awaiting trial for embezzlement at the April term of the U. S. District Court.

Before his arrest the teller admitted, police said, that he had stolen $1,000 a month for eighteen months from accounts under his charge.

"I haven't had a real night's rest since I took the first dollar," he was quoted as saying to his questioners.

Gay parties and luxuries inconsistent with his salary of $3,500 as bank teller were held responsible by Smardon for his downfall, police said.

The entire $18,000 was taken from the various accounts of the Maine Central Railroad Company.

DEMANDS WHAT BIMBA SAID

Attorney Harry Hoffman of Boston asked the Brockton court to demand of the accusers of his client, Anthony Bimba, charged with blasphemy, exactly what language Bimba used and when.

Bimba is being tried under a Blue Law of 1697, which makes it a criminal offense to deny the existence of God. His accusers are Lithuanians of Brockton.

They also charge Bimba with advocating the overthrow of the United States by armed force and he is scheduled to face the charge of seditious utterance on February 24. His attorney also asks for particulars on this charge.

THERE IS MUCH excitement about the Mexican-American dive resort, maintained at Tia Juana just across the California border. Two American girls drank in one of the Tia Juana saloons with their father and mother. Then, it is said, they were drugged, and subsequently outrageously treated by men that may be shot for their crime. The unfortunate father, Petset, of San Diego, overwhelmed with shame, killed himself, his wife and two daughters, to wipe out the stain.

VERY TRAGIC, and the news that 52 of Tia Juana's drinking dives have been closed is good news.

Secretary Kellogg doubtless will find a way to prevent constant migration of United States citizens to the dives across the border.

And when the United States newspapers talk about the Tia Juana disgrace they should remember that it is a United States disgrace more than a Mexican. Tia Juana's drinking dives and race track dive are patronized and kept going by people from the United States.

ABOVE THE drinking dives is the word in big letters is BAR, not canina.

If the American father had not taken his wife and daughters to a Tia Juana drinking dive, the daughters would have kept out of trouble, the father would not have found it necessary to kill himself and his family.

THE "EARL OF CRAVEN" is probably the most amazed Briton now alive on earth.

The immigration department wants him on a charge of "moral turpitude," and there is talk of locking him up at Ellis Island and shipping him back to the British House of Lords, "as is."

To keep out women that do not quite come up to our high and pure moral standards might be treated as a fairly good joke.

But deporting a genuine nobleman unable to pass the Y. W. C. A. acid test is new.

PROFESSOR ROSS, sound thinker, of the University of Wisconsin, has cheer for the troubled world.

It is getting better, he says. One hundred years hence, the average man will enjoy benefits of civilization "now enjoyed only by the most advanced people."

Religions are less violent in their hates than they used to be. The average length of life is increasing. Child welfare is considered more important than any particular detail in baptism, or any squabble about the nature of the Trinity.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

Copley Society Postpones Costume Dance in Favor of Musicale

WHILE LENT CREPT UP QUITE unawares—so to speak—on the sets that adore to dance and finds them with a brimful program, there is, elsewhere in the social realm, a very definite modification of the pace to attune somewhat with the just commencing penitential season.

THE COPLEY SOCIETY whose late Winter scheme of affairs shone lustrously with gay promise has deferred indefinitely the more joyous costume dances and celebrates March 1 with an evening at Miss Grace Horne's galleries in Trinity Court.

MUSIC OF HIGH order will be on the program. Miss Helen True, soprano; Mrs. Marjorie Patten Weaver, 'cellist; Chester Bonney, tenor, and Everett Ilsconb, pianist, each contribute; Harry Whorf reads an original play named "Pickled Money," all about student life in Provincetown.

AND, TRUE TO the moment's mode, there will be old-time dancing, the polka and Virginia reel and other Terpsichorean favorites of an older generation. Miss Horne's galleries are delightfully arranged for such informal evenings just as that of the Copley Society promises to be.

SPEAKING OF Harry Whorf—he is the parent of those two young men of more than local fame, John Whorf, the painter, and Richard Whorf, recently of the Copley Players and now about to sail abroad on study bent. As a young artist of much promise the first named is steadily ascending the Golden Ladder.

RICHARD WHORF'S metier is two-fold, a talent for acting (as he's so ably demonstrated with the Copley Players) and a flair for scene building and decoration. Now he is away overseas to study and gain new inspiration with the master, Rheinhardt, who devised "The Miracle."

BUT OF THE COPLEY SOCIETY and its program of dances—great is the regret that their Black and White Ball and Headdress Ball go into the discard until another season. Also that there will be no repetition this Winter of that gorgeous Fine Arts Ball which lent such elegance and distinction to the social last Winter's scene.

ALREADY PLANS are in the air for several such affairs next year. They'll be on the early program, probably taking place before Christmas will have rolled round again, which is, of course, joyous news for Copley Society members and their friends.

MUSICALLY SPEAKING, the present week's measure is heightened with Richard Platt's musicale tomorrow afternoon at his Lime street establishment. Miss Marcia Merrill, a Portland, Me., girl, is the feminine star who sings.

SHE SHARES HONORS with Harrison Potter, pianist, and Mrs. Dudley Pitts will be accompanist. For the tea hour, which follows the musical hour (that is at 4 in the afternoon), Mrs. Charles F. Bradley of Mt. Vernon street will preside at the tea cups.

FROM LONDON comes word of the private view of the John Singer Sargent collection, echoing in a way the vastly successful showing of Sargent works here in Boston's Museum of Fine Arts. London, of course, feels just as strongly as Boston that Sargent is or was its own portrait painter.

THE SHOWING at the Royal Academy drew London's society as a magnet attracts steel—its younger generation vastly interested in the painted beauties of yester-year and the fashions portrayed.

OF COURSE, Sargent in London painted "everyone who was any one," just as he did in Boston where a recounting of subjects takes on a Social Register significance. London's "everyone" were the lights of Victorian and Edwardian days, beauties of the Courts and Society.

NOTABLE IN THE throng was that energetic and ever-youthful person, Lady Oxford, who is known quite the world around as "Margot" Asquith, of literary and lecture platform fame. Lady Oxford dashed in and out of the galleries with more than her usual energy, so 'tis said.

SHE WAS WEARING a trig little chapeau of bright royal-blue velvet atop a rich fur coat of seal, brightened with a gardenia cluster. When Lady Oxford flashed across Boston skies as Margot Asquith her gowns were sleek affairs of black, as background for some rare ropes of pearls.

ST. PATRICK'S A 'FEAST' DAY

For the first time in the history of the Archdiocese of Boston, Catholics are permitted to forego fast and abstinence on one of the days set aside for that law of the church during Lent.

By virtue of a special indult received by His Eminence, Cardinal O'Connell, from the Papal authorities at Rome, all the faithful of the Archdiocese of Boston are dispensed from the law of fast and abstinence on March 17th, the feast of St. Patrick, the patron of this diocese and patron saint of Irish people the world over.

In former years the law of fast and abstinence has been waived where the feast of St. Patrick fell on a day other than one where abstinence from meat was required. This year the feast comes on a day which, by a recent indult, also obtained by Cardinal O'Connell from Rome, is proclaimed as a day of fast and abstinence, the rule of fast and abstinence being now on Wednesday and Friday, instead of on Friday and Saturday during Lent.

A Sneeze—a Chill!

Beware a Cold! Do This—

A SNEEZE or two and a chill are the warnings of an impending cold. Don't wait to see. Take action tonight!

Thousands of people turned to the good old-fashioned way during the great influenza epidemics. Hot lemonade was an effective check on colds.

The efficiency of hot lemonade in the prevention or treatment of a cold is due to more than its heat.

If you feel chilly and begin to sneeze, take a piping hot lemonade, then a good warm bath and get right into bed under warm covers.

Keep the covers well up over the shoulders. You'll feel better in the morning.

It may save a cold and even more serious consequences.

Always have lemons in the house for such an emergency. You'll stop many colds in this time-tried way.

Just squeeze the juice of a lemon in glass or cup of hot water. Add sugar if you wish.

California lemons make the best lemonade. They are practically seedless, tart and heavy with acid juice. Buy them at any first-class store. Try the "hot lemonade way" tonight.

OLD IRONSIDES FUND AIDED BY CHILDREN

Many Novel Ideas for Raising Funds Planned by Kiddies; Total Takes Jump

Children continue to be the real supporters of the plan to save "Old Ironsides" from the junk heap.

Eight-year-old Doris McCallum of No. 636 Seventh street, South Boston, turned in 16 cents to the fund as the result of an ingenious arrangement she had with her daddy. Francis F. McCallum. She arranged to obtain from him a penny for every valentine sent her.

Doris' daddy is helping the project still further by running a slide at the Imperial Theatre, South Boston, telling patrons of that movie house about the drive.

BEANPOT BANK.

Another kiddie who has contributed to the Fund through this newspaper is James Hirl, Jr., of No. 111 West Canton street, South End, who called at the Boston Evening American office with a small beanpot filled with pennies.

Other recent contributions through the Boston Evening American, are Mrs. Flora Wheeler, Nashua, N. H., $1 and Mrs. J. Wood $1.

A total of $142,393.84 has been received by the national committee according to Lieutenant J. A. Lord, U. S. N., superintendent of restoration. Recent contributions include the following:

Marion W. McElaney, Boston, $1; Mrs. C. H. Toll, Amherst, Me., $1; Smith school, Augusta, Me., $1; Currie school, Currie, Mont., 35 cents; Rock County school, Dist. 20, S. D., 30 cents; Bulndan school, Bulndan, N. C., $1; Roxbury High school, Roxbury, $1; B. P. O. E., 164, Brockton, $865.31; Brimmer school, Boston, (additional), $1.45; Country Day school, Newton, 10 cents; L. L. Sprague, Wyoming seminary, Kingston, Pa., $10; Edwin F. Brown, Dover Dam, Wis., $5; B. P. O. E., 147, Defiance, O., $209.52; Park school, Kansas City, Mo., 52 cents; Haynes school, Haynes, N. D., $1; Pringhar school, Primghar, Ia., $1; Hamel school, Dist. 127, Hamel, Minn., $1.

The seventh instalment of "The Luck of 'Old Ironsides'" written by Lieutenant Commander E. S. R. Brandt, U. S. N., to boost the fund for rebuilding the old frigate follows:

By Lieut. Commdr. E. S. R. Brandt.

How near she ("Old Ironsides") came to complete wreck is shown in another account of an eye witness on board of her in 1835 herewith presented as originally written under the spell of her performances.

"Old Ironsides" on a Lee Shore.

Written about 1835—from an old scrap book.

It was at the close of a stormy day in 1835, when the gallant frigate Constitution, under the command of Captain Elliott—having on board the late Edward Livingston, late minister to the Court of France, and family, and manned by nearly 500 souls—drew near the "chops" of the English Channel. For four days she had been beating down from Plymouth and on the fifth, at evening she made her last tack for the French coast.

ALL RUSH ON DECK.

The watch was set at eight P. M.—the captain came on deck soon after and, having ascertained the bearing of Scilly, gave orders to keep the ship "full and bye," remarking at the same time to the officer of the deck that he might make the light on the lee beam, but, he stated, he thought it more than probable that he would pass it without seeing it. He then "turned in," as did most of the idlers and the starboard watch.

At a quarter past nine P. M., the ship heading west by compass, when the call of "Light Ho!" was heard from the forstopsail yard.

"Where!" asked the officer of the deck.

"Three points on the lee bow," replied the look-out man, which the unprofessional reader will understand to mean very nearly straight ahead. At this moment, the captain appeared and took the trumpet.

"Call all hands," was his immediate order.

"All hands," screamed the boatswain's mate and ere the last echo died away, all but the sick were upon deck.

(Another instalment of Lieut. Commdr. Brandt's story will be printed in tomorrow's Boston Evening American.)

RALPH BARTON NOT TO FIGHT DIVORCE

"Other Woman," Said to Be Lovely Blond, Not Named in Petition

New York, Feb. 16.—Carlotta Monterey, actress and former leading woman for Lou Tellegen, expects a complete, if unhindered, victory in her suit for divorce from Ralph Barton, artist.

In fact, as far as Barton is concerned, Carlotta can have her divorce without any fuss. Barton said as much today when seen in his apartment at the Hotel Des Artistes. He said:

"I shall not contest her action. She wants her freedom—let her have it."

Affidavit of service in the divorce action was on file today in the county clerk's office. Barton admitted service.

The "other woman," said to be a petite blond of not unlovely appearance, is unnamed in the papers. That she was in Barton's apartment on the night of January 2.

G. CLEVELAND'S DAUGHTER IS DIVORCED

Ex-President's Widow Confirms Paris Report of Decree for Mrs. Dell

Princeton, N. J., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Mrs. Thomas J. Preston, Jr., widow of Grover Cleveland, today confirmed Paris dispatches announcing the granting of a divorce to her daughter, Marion Cleveland Dell of Morristown, N. Y. Mrs. Dell was the second child of the marriage of Mrs. Preston to Grover Cleveland.

The press dispatches declared the decree against William Stanley Dell had been given because of his "injurious attitude" toward the defendant. This was characterized by Mrs. Preston as an "impertinence." She said Dell is now in Switzerland, while her daughter is in New York.

"We had hoped the affair would not be made public," said Mrs. Preston. "Now that it is out, I want it made clear that desertion constituted the grounds for divorce."

$100,000,000 FOR AIRCRAFT

Washington, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—The House Naval Committee has virtually agreed upon a five-year building program for the Naval Air Service to cost $100,000,000.

This is about two-fifths of the amount recommended by Rear-Admiral Moffett, Naval Air chief, as necessary to provide an adequate air service for any emergency.

Final decision on the program is expected by the committee tomorrow and, if adopted, a bill to authorize this expenditure probably will be introduced in the next day or so by Chairman Butler.

In its present form, the program would authorize an annual expenditure of $20,000,000 for five years and provide two dirigibles, each three times the size of the wrecked Shenandoah, one thousand new planes and an appropriation, the amount undetermined, for the navy to contract with the Aircraft Development Corporation, backed by Ford interests, for an all-metal dirigible.

Representative Vinson of Georgia, rankking Democrat on the committee, said today that members were practically united in their views.

Thugs Slay Two Police

Pulaski, Tenn., Feb. 16 (I.N.S.).—Two policemen were slain here today in a gun battle with thugs, who apparently came to rob the bank of postoffice. The thugs ambushed Policemen George Dodson and Bud Jackson. Bloodhounds were rushed here to take up the trail.

SEA HI-JACKERS LOOT SHIP

Lunenberg, N. S., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Captain Arthur Whynot, master of the schooner Arthur J. Balfour, which has just arrived here, relates a story of being boarded by hijackers off Ram Row.

Eleven hundred cases of Scotch whiskey were pirated and the captain and his crew were held prisoners on their own ship for 11 days by armed buccaneers.

Captain Whynot says the hijackers came along side the Balfour in a vessel disguised as a United States coastguard cutter. They overpowered the Nova Scotian crew and transferred the whiskey to the "cutter."

GAY LIFE LURED BANK LOOTER

Portland, Me., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Philip A. Smardon, former teller of the First National Bank here, was at liberty today on $3,000 bail awaiting trial for embezzlement at the April term of the U. S. District Court.

Before his arrest the teller admitted, police said, that he had stolen $1,000 a month for eighteen months from accounts under his charge.

"I haven't had a real night's rest since I took the first dollar," he was quoted as saying to his questioners.

Gay parties and luxuries inconsistent with his salary of $3,500 as bank teller were held responsible by Smardon for his downfall, police said.

The entire $18,000 was taken from the various accounts of the Maine Central Railroad Company.

DEMANDS WHAT BIMBA SAID

Attorney Harry Hoffman of Boston asked the Brockton court to demand of the accusers of his client, Anthony Bimba, charged with blasphemy, exactly what language Bimba used and when.

Bimba is being tried under a Blue Law of 1697, which makes it a criminal offense to deny the existence of God. His accusers are Lithuanians of Brockton.

They also charge Bimba with advocating the overthrow of the United States by armed force and he is scheduled to face the charge of seditious utterance on February 24. His attorney also asks for particulars on this charge.

THERE IS MUCH excitement about the Mexican-American dive resort, maintained at Tia Juana just across the California border. Two American girls drank in one of the Tia Juana saloons with their father and mother. Then, it is said, they were drugged, and subsequently outrageously treated by men that may be shot for their crime. The unfortunate father, Feinet, of San Diego, over-whelmed with shame, killed himself, his wife and two daughters, to wipe out the stain.

VERY TRAGIC, and the news that 53 of Tia Juana's drinking dives have been closed is good news.

Secretary Kellogg doubtless will find a way to prevent constant migration of United States citizens to the dives across the border.

And when the United States newspapers talk about the Tia Juana disgrace they should remember that it is a United States disgrace more than a Mexican. Tia Juana's drinking dives and race track dive are patronized and kept going by people from the United States.

BE A BOSTON BOOSTER

If the American father had not taken his wife and daughters to a Tia Juana drinking dive, the daughters would have kept out of trouble, the father would not have found it necessary to kill himself and his family.

THE "EARL OF CRAVEN" is probably the most amazed Briton now alive on earth.

The Immigration department wants him on a charge of "moral turpitude," and there is talk of locking him up at Ellis Island and shipping him back to the British House of Lords, "as is."

To keep out women that do not quite come up to our high and pure moral standards might be treated as a fairly good joke.

But deporting a genuine nobleman unable to pass the Y. W. C. A. acid test is new.

It is getting better, he says. One hundred years hence, the average man will enjoy benefits of civilization "now enjoyed only by the most advanced people."

Religions are less violent in their hates than they used to be. The average length of life is increasing. Child welfare is considered more important than any particular detail in baptism, or any squabble about the nature of the Trinity.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

Copley Society Postpones Costume Dance in Favor of Musicale

WHILE LENT CREPT UP QUITE unawares—so to speak—on the sets that adore to dance and finds them with a brimful program, there is, elsewhere in the social realm, a very definite modification of the pace to attune somewhat with the just commencing penitential season.

THE COPLEY SOCIETY whose late Winter scheme of affairs shone lustrously with gay promise has deferred indefinitely the more joyous costume dances and celebrates March 1 with an evening at Miss Grace Horne's galleries in Trinity Court.

MUSIC OF HIGH order will be on the program. Miss Helen True, soprano; Mrs. Marjorie Patten Weaver, 'cellist; Chester Bonney, tenor, and Everett Titcomb, pianist, each contribute; Harry Whorf reads an original play named "Pickled Money," all about student life in Provincetown.

AND, TRUE TO the moment's mode, there will be old-time dancing, the polka and Virginia reel and other Terpsichorean favorites of an older generation. Miss Horne's galleries are delightfully arranged for such informal evenings just as that of the Copley Society promises to be.

SPEAKING OF Harry Whorf—he is the parent of those two young men of more than local fame, John Whorf, the painter, and Richard Whorf, recently of the Copley Players and now about to sail abroad on study bent. As a young artist of much promise the first named is steadily ascending the Golden Ladder.

RICHARD WHORF'S metier is two-fold, a talent for acting (as he's so ably demonstrated with the Copley Players) and a flair for scene building and decoration. Now he is away overseas to study and gain new inspiration with the master, Rheinhardt, who devised "The Miracle."

BUT OF THE COPLEY SOCIETY and its program of dances—great is the regret that their Black and White Ball and Headdress Ball go into the discard until another season. Also that there will be no repetition this Winter of that gorgeous Fine Arts Ball which lent such elegance and distinction to the social last Winter's scene.

ALREADY PLANS are in the air for several such dances next year. They'll be on the early program, probably taking place before Christmas will have rolled round again. Which is, of course, joyous news for Copley Society members and their friends.

MUSICALLY SPEAKING, the present week's measure is heightened with Richard Platt's musicale tomorrow afternoon at his Lime Street establishment. Miss Marcia Merrill, a Portland, Me., girl, is the feminine star who sings.

SHE SHARES HONORS with Harrison Potter, pianist, and Mrs. Dudley Fitts will be the accompanist. For the tea hour, which follows the musical hour (that is at 4 in the afternoon), Mrs. Charles F. Bradley of Mt. Vernon street will preside at the tea cups.

FROM LONDON comes word of the private view of the John Singer Sargent collection, echoing in a way the vastly successful showing of Sargent works here in Boston's Museum of Fine Arts. London, of course, feels just as strongly as Boston that Sargent is or was its own portrait painter.

THE SHOWING at the Royal Academy drew London's society as a magnet attracts steel—its younger generation vastly interested in the painted beauties of yester-year and the fashions portrayed.

OF COURSE, Sargent in London painted "everyone who was any one," just as he did in Boston where a recounting of subjects takes on a Social Register significance. London's "everyone" were the lights of Victorian and Edwardian days, beauties of the Courts and Society.

NOTABLE IN THE throng was that energetic and ever-youthful person, Lady Oxford, who is known quite the world around as "Margot" Asquith, of literary and lecture platform fame. Lady Oxford dashed in and out of the galleries with more than her usual energy. So 'tis said.

SHE WAS WEARING a trig little chapeau of bright royal-blue velvet atop a rich fur coat of seal, brightened with a gardenia cluster. When Lady Oxford flashed across Boston ekies as Margot Asquith her gowns were sleek affairs of black, as background for some rare roses of pearls.

ST. PATRICK'S A 'FEAST' DAY

For the first time in the history of the Archdiocese of Boston, Catholics are permitted to forego fast and abstinence on one of the days set aside for that law of the church during Lent.

By virtue of a special indult received by His Eminence, Cardinal O'Connell, from the Papal authorities at Rome, all the faithful of the Archdiocese of Boston are dispensed from the law of fast and abstinence on March 17th, the feast of St. Patrick, the patron of this diocese and patron saint of Irish people the world over.

In former years the law of fast and abstinence has been waived where the feast of St. Patrick fell on a day other than one where abstinence from meat was required. This year the feast comes on a day which, by a recent indult, also obtained by Cardinal O'Connell from Rome, is proclaimed as a day of fast and abstinence, the rule of fast and abstinence being now on Wednesday and Friday, instead of on Friday and Saturday during Lent.

A Sneeze—a Chill!

Beware a Cold! Do This—

A SNEEZE or two and a chill are the warnings of an impending cold. Don't wait to see. Take action tonight!

The efficiency of hot lemonade in the prevention or treatment of a cold is due to more than its heat.

If you feel chilly and begin to sneeze, take a piping hot lemonade, then a good warm bath and get right into bed under warm covers. Keep the covers well up over the shoulders. You'll feel better in the morning.

It may save a cold and even more serious consequences.

Always have lemons in the house for such an emergency. You'll stop many colds in this time-tried way.

Just squeeze the juice of a lemon in glass or cup of hot water. Add sugar if you wish.

California lemons make the best lemonade. They are practically seedless, tart and heavy with acid juice. Buy them at any first-class store. Try the "hot lemonade way" tonight.

OLD IRONSIDES FUND AIDED BY CHILDREN

Children continue to be the real supporters of the plan to save "Old Ironsides" from the junk heap.

Eight-year-old Doris McCallum of No. 616 Seventh street, South Boston, turned in 55 cents to the fund as the result of an ingenious arrangement she had with her daddy, Francis F. McCallum. She arranged to obtain from him a penny for every valentine sent her.

Doris daddy is helping the project still further by running a slide at the Imperial Theatre, South Boston, telling patrons of that movie house about the drive.

BEANPOT BANK.

Another kiddie who has contributed to the Fund through this newspaper is James Hirl, Jr., of No. 111 West Canton street, South End, who called at the Boston Evening American office with a small beanpot filled with pennies.

Other recent contributions through the Boston Evening American are Mrs. Flora Wheeler, Nashua, N. H., $1 and Mrs. J. Wood $1.

A total of $142,203.94 has been received by the national committee, according to Lieutenant J. A. Lord, U. S. N., superintendent of restoration. Recent contributions include the following:

Marion W. McElaney, Boston, $1; Mrs. C. H. Tell, Amherst, Me., $1; Smith school, Augusta, Me., $1; Currie school, Currie, Mont., 35 cents; Rock County school, Dist. 99, S. D., 30 cents; Hoboken school, Tuladean, N. C., $1; Roxbury High school, Roxbury, $1; B. P. O. E., 164, Brockton, $963.21; Brimmer school, Boston, additional, $1.45; Country Day school, Newton, 10 cents; L. L. Sprague, Wyoming seminary, Kingston, Pa., $10; Edwin P. Brown, Bever Dam, Wis., $5; B. P. O. E., 147, Defiance, O., $209.62; Park school, Kansas City, Mo., $1 cents; Vernon school, Haynes, N. D., $1; Primghar school, Primghar, Ia., $1; Hamel school, Dist. 127, Hamel, Minn., $1.

The fourth installment of "The Luck of 'Old Ironsides'" written by Lieutenant Commander E. S. R. Brandt, U. S. N., in hope of the fund for rebuilding the old frigate follows:

By Lieut. Commdr. E. S. R. Brandt.

How near she ("Old Ironsides") came to complete wreck is shown in another account of an eye witness on board of her in 1835 herewith presented as originally written under the spell of her performances.

"Old Ironsides" on a Lee Shore.

Written about 1836—from an old scrap book:

It was at the close of a stormy day in 1835, when the gallant frigate Constitution, under the command of Captain Elliott—having on board the late Edward Livingston, late minister to the Court of France, and family, and manned by nearly 500 souls—drew near the "Horse" of the English Channel. For four days she had been beating down from stock.

RALPH BARTON NOT TO FIGHT DIVORCE

"Other Woman," Said to Be Lovely Blond, Not Named In Petition

New York, Feb. 16.—Carlotta Monterey, actress and former leading woman for Lou Tellegen, expects a complete, if unhindered, victory in her suit for divorce from Ralph Barton, artist.

In fact, as far as Barton is concerned, Carlotta can have her divorce without any fuss. Barton said as much today when seen in his apartment at the Hotel Des Artistes. He said:

"I shall not contest her action. She wants her freedom—let her have it."

Affidavit of service in the divorce action was on file today in the county clerk's office. Barton admitted service.

The "other woman," said to be a petite blond of not unlovely appearance, is unnamed in the papers. That she was in Barton's apartment on the night of January 2,

Plymouth and on the fifth, at evening she made her last tack for the French coast.

ALL RUSH ON DECK.

The watch was set at eight P. M.—the captain came on deck soon after and, having ascertained the bearing of Scilly, gave orders to keep the ship "full and bye," remarking at the same time to the officer of the deck that he might make the light on the lee beam, but, he stated, he thought it more than probable that he would pass it without seeing it. He then "turned in," as did most of the fifers and the starboard watch.

At a quarter past nine P. M., the ship heading west by compass, when the call of "Light O!" was heard from the foretopsail yard.

"Where?" asked the officer of the deck.

"Three points on the lee bow," replied the look-out man, which the unprofessional reader will understand to mean very nearly straight ahead. At this moment, the captain appeared and took the trumpet.

"Call all hands," was his immediate order.

"All hands," screamed the boatswain's mate and era the last echo died away, all but the sick were upon deck.

(Another installment of Lieut. Commdr. Brandt's story will be printed in tomorrow's Boston Evening American.)

MRS. SYLVANUS STOKES, JR. TO PUSH HER PARIS SUIT

Paris, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Mrs. Sylvanus Stokes, Jr., of New York and Washington, asks the custody of her children, but no alimony, in the divorce demand filed with the French court, it was revealed today. A proceeding designed to effect a reconciliation has proved fruitless and the divorce will, therefore, be granted shortly. Mrs. Stokes was formerly Miss Margaret Palmer.

G. CLEVELAND'S DAUGHTER IS DIVORCED

Ex-President's Widow Confirms Paris Report of Decree for Mrs. Dell

Princeton, N. J., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Mrs. Thomas J. Preston, Jr., widow of Grover Cleveland, today confirmed Paris dispatches announcing the granting of a divorce to her daughter, Marion Cleveland Dell of Morristown, N. Y. Mrs. Dell was the second child of the marriage of Mrs. Preston to Grover Cleveland.

The press dispatches declared the decree against William Stanley Dell had been given because of his "injurious attitude" toward the defendant. This was characterized by Mrs. Preston as an "impertinence." She said Dell is now in Switzerland, while her daughter is in New York. "We had hoped the affair would not be made public," said Mrs. Preston. "Now that it is out, I want it made clear that desertion constituted the grounds for divorce."

HODGE DEPICTS HUMAN NATURE AT PLYMOUTH

Actor-Playwright Stars in His Own Drama, "The Judge's Husband"

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

If there is any mystery about William Hodge it is the dexterity with which he smashes all the rules of the theatre and still turns out sizzling drama for the multitudes. Among the actor-authors of this generation he is our best shot—the Deadwood Dick of our struggling, striving playwrights.

Take him as you find him, William Hodge is the best friend of the American theatre. He throws loving arms around human nature as the earnest playgoer hopes to find it; he embraces comedy only as a long, lean, sandy topped player out of the ancient but respected rural drama could hope to achieve—and he remains scrupulously clean. These items may be minor in their effect upon the drama but they invariably make a William Hodge production something to be accounted for at the gate.

Once more Mr. Hodge has come to us with his own work—"The Judge's Husband"—and with it the Plymouth goes back to the drama of actors not without musical accompaniment. Mr. Hodge understands not only his own friendly playgoers but also his own small town native.

More successfully than any author-player of the period he blends them into harmonious human-across-the-footlights conformation that sets its own standard of theatrical efficiency.

There was much in "The Judge's Husband" that tested the imagination, but there was no doubt of its human appeal and its droll comedy. Emancipation for women, a little bootlegging and a richly blessed middle age romance gave the play a full measure of fun and heart beats.

For his own part in the proceedings Mr. Hodge ran true to accepted form. Quaintly humorous, deeply sympathetic and personality rife in qualities that make women weep and smile at the same time, he swept his first night audience into unrestrained exhilaration. Once more he demonstrated that the good old home stuff, properly seasoned with tang and sauce, destroys the curse of empty seats.

But even so adroit a builder of popular entertainment as Mr. Hodge knew that a polar mass of acted and to his side he has drawn Gladys Hanson, statuesque, imperious and talented. She fitted well into the role of the emancipated mistress of the quiet Connecticut home. She was sincerely faithful as an actress if not so soundly true as a judge of the Superior Court.

Ruth Lyons stirred a flurry of excitement among friends who have followed her from the Somerville Players to the drama of Broadway, and Charles E. Verner, Mattie Keene and Marie Haynes added useful bits to the ensemble. For dark and double dealing, Reynolds Denniston managed very well.

"The Judge's Husband" is William Hodge before and after the fact. From his days as Freeman Whitemarsh in James A. Herne's "Sag Harbor" to "Joe Kirby," now at the Plymouth, he has been enjoyably human and a remedy for the depressed.

Continuing Shows

NEW PARK—"Rain." A play of the South Sea, headed by the gifted Jeanne Eagels.

TREMONT—"No, No, Nanette." Musical comedy that holds interest from start to finish.

COLONIAL—"Music Box Revue." A rare blend of music, comedy, scenery and girls.

WILBUR—"Is Zat So?" High speed comedy concerning a pugilist and his manager.

HOLLIS—"The Poor Nut." Ellis Nugent acts in his own play and does very well at it.

CASTLE SQ.—"Abie's Irish Rose." Merely the most popular play in the world—that's all.

COPLEY—"John Bull's Other Island." Satirical comedy of the celebrated Mr. Shaw.

WAR VETS NEVER TIRE OF 'THE BIG PARADE'

National Commander McQuire, of the American Legion, paid a flying visit to New York the other day, but he postponed all his numerous engagements there until he had spent an afternoon at the Astor Theatre looking at "The Big Parade." He confessed he had looked at the Stallings-Vidor film six times.

Here in Boston the American Legion membership can be counted commander a close second. Many have been to the Majestic Theatre three or four times since "The Big Parade" started its record-breaking engagement more than a month ago.

PULLING FUN FROM THE LATE COMBAT

ALL IN, but not down and out. Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton exploit good cheer under distressing circumstances in "Behind The Front" at the Metropolitan.

METROPOLITAN FEATURES WAR COMEDY

"Bughouse Cabaret" Burlesques Eccentric Dancing and "Nut" Players

Just about the two dumbest doughboys that ever got tangled up in the World War jumble are to be seen in Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton, whose grotesque clowning in the comedy war film, "Behind the Front," is generating the strongest currents of laughter that have ever stirred an audience at the Metropolitan.

Described in the billing as "the funny side of war," Edward Sutherland, who is responsible for the direction, has striven with might and main to make it just that. Every ridiculous incident and every hard luck detail that ever befell the unfortunate buck-privates of bonbon tendancies has been unceremoniously stuffed into the regulation movie bag of tricks and gags; the whole has been well shaken together and then poured out in the shape of the surest of sure-fire comedy.

Mr. Sutherland has happily recruited his two "heroes"—most amazingly obtuse gentlemen—overloads them with soldier equipment and packs them away to war, all in the space of one flicker of film. He lands them in Sunny France in the pouring rain; he gets them in wrong with every officer of the Allies; he drenches them in finest mud; he plants them in the "boonerow"; he keeps them fighting after the armistice, and the audience roars its glee until the finale occurs with timely relief for aching sides.

Besides the film, there are three highly entertaining stage features: absurd.

Lost to "Rudy"

NATACHA RAMBOVA (Mrs. Rudolph Valentino), is conveying her art to the world without the help of her distinguished ex-spouse. She's at B. F. Keith's this week in person, also at the Fenway, in the sparkling film, "When Love Grows Cold."

Eddie Elkins' jazz band with an accompanying group of Charleston marathoners; "Beethoven," a musical account of the origin of the famous "Moonlight Sonata," and John Murray Anderson's latest spectacle, "The Bughouse Cabaret," a burlesque on the "revue" style of entertainment, in which eccentric dancing and "nut" comedians

KEITH FEATURES MRS. RUDOLPH VALENTINO

Natacha Rambova in Person Stars in Playet; Brilliant Program

Natacha Rambova—perhaps more familiarly known as Mrs. Rudolph Valentino—she of perfect profile and appealing voice, headlines the proceedings at B. F. Keith's in a most absorbing one-act playlet, "The Purple Vial," written by Andrew De Lorde and staged by Paul McAllister.

It is a tragedy of continental intrigue in diplomatic circles, done in the Gallic manner, with Miss Rambova giving a convincing performance of a Russian heroine who avenges the murder of her brother by luring his slayer into a position where she can administer the fatal poison of "The Purple Vial." Mr. McAllister appears as the arch villain and gives a quality of dramatic characterization rarely seen on the variety stage.

Though the surrounding bill is of unusual excellence, Will Mahoney leads the fun making in a "nut" act that stops the show cold in its tracks. He sings songs, he burlesques the dance and, as his windup, sends his audience into uncontrollable laughter with the most grotesque take-off on the "humming song" that could possibly be imagined. Will Mahoney is a "riot."

Four capable representatives of the Eddie Foy offspring prance about much in the happy manner of their distinguished sire; Paco Cansino, with Juanita and company, give a splendid account of themselves in Spanish dances; the Wilton Sisters harmonize in plaintive minor keys; Morton Cahill offers his "Cloud Swing" on a slack rope, and others contribute to an all around fine program.

Week's Features

MODERN—"When Love Grows Cold," with Natacha Rambova and Clive Brook, and "The Million Dollar Handicap," with Vera Reynolds and Ralph Lewis.

SCOLLAY SQ.—"Bluebeard's Seven Wives," with Lois Wilson and Ben Lyon.

WALDRON'S (Burlesque)—"Wine, Woman and Song" revue, with Bert Bertrand.

HOWARD (Burlesque)—"Step Lively Girls" revue, with Harry Bently.

BOWDOIN SQ.—"The American Venus," with Esther Ralston and Fay Lanphier, and "The Overland Limited."

BEACON—"The Million Dollar Handicap," with Vera Reynolds, and "When Love Grows Cold," with Natacha Rambova (Mrs. Rudolph Valentino).

Coming Events

"Dancing Mothers" will be the film feature at the Metropolitan, starting next Sunday.

"Ben Hur," a film spectacle of imposing dimensions, will take the screen at the Colonial next Monday.

Mitzi, in "Naughty Riquette," is announced for the Shubert, starting next Monday.

"Hay Fever," a play by Noel Coward, will take the attention of Mr. Clive's Copley Players next week.

"Caesar and Cleopatra" will be the next attraction at the Repertory, starting next Monday.

Rex Beach's, "The Auction Block," will be the film feature in the bill at the State next week.

Irene Bordoni, in "Naughty Cinderella," is scheduled for the Tremont on Monday, March 1st.

CHANEY PLAYS DUAL ROLE AT LOEW'S STATE

Vaudeville Bill of Unusual Merit Accompanies Gripping Film Mystery Drama

"The Black Bird," mystery drama of London's Limehouse district and featuring Lon Chaney, heads the entertainment at Loew's State. Again, Chaney—master of make-up—gives another of his dual roles.

He is seen in one as "The Black Bird," Czar of the underworld, and a villain of the deepest dye; in the other, as "The Hisbop," a crippled and saintly rescue worker in the Limehouse mission.

It is a splendid picture and more after the order of "The Unholy Three" than anything the star has been seen in for some time. He is ably supported by Owen Moore and Renee Adoree.

On the stage, Rita Owen, former Ziegfeld star, appears in eccentric dancing; Craig Campbell, tenor of sweet and wide range, sings pleasing songs; Tyler Mason presents an act with a breezy Southern atmosphere; Roy Bolger, dancing ace, gives a demonstration of the newest in steps, and Philip Spitalny and his Victor Recording Unit, scores heavily with his remarkable jazz interpretations.

24 BELIEVED LOST ON GALE-SWEPT TRAWLERS

London, Feb. 16 (I.N.S.)—Twenty-four men, comprising the crews of the trawlers Cardigan Castle and Tenby Castle, have been drowned in a storm off the coast of Galway, according to a report reaching here today. The report said the Cardigan Castle was wrecked in the effort to save the sinking Tenby Castle.

OPERA TALE AT NEW BOSTON

Rex Beach's "The Goose Woman," in film form, joins the entertainment at the New Boston. Louise Dresser, Jack Pickford, Constance Bennett and Marc MacDermott have the principal roles.

It is a dramatic story of a once famous opera singer who, in giving birth to a son, loses her voice forever. From the luxurious life of a world-famous prima donna, she sinks far down in the social scale until she is discovered as a frowsy slattern living in a squalid shack with little else to interest her than a flock of geese, an inordinate attachment to gin and a phonographic record of her one time beautiful voice.

There is a murder-mystery, plenty of romance and some interesting scenes of backstage life in the theatre. The acting honors go to Louise Dresser and Marc MacDermott.

Shorter screen subjects and a bill of vaudeville, headed by "The Night Club," a miniature musical comedy starring Kay Spong,er, completes the performance.

LURE OF SIREN AT ST. JAMES

The love story of one of the greatest sleuths of the Old World is depicted in "The Palace of Pleasure," now showing at the New St. James. The plot is evolved from the stage romance "Lola Montez," an adventurous tale given against the picturesque setting of old Portugal during a vital period in its political life.

Betty Compson appears as the much sought dancer, Lola, whose many suitors comprised political leaders and soldiers in the age when Lisbon was the scene of tumultuous revolutions. The story is devoted to the actress' intrigue with an outlawed royalist and the jealousy of the national premier. Edmund Lowe is the other featured player.

There is also a varied bill of vaude-ville which is headed by Charles Ahearn and his "Millionaire Jazz Band." Another bright act is Lewis and Smith, two Beau Brummells who have a pleasing offering of song. Nevins and Gordon have a novel comedy skit entitled, "Nonsense," and May Bernie, the "dancing girl," appears in "Three Feet of Laughter."

RICH PROGRAM AT ORPHEUM

A program rich in amusement values is offered at Loew's Orpheum. The photoplay presented the new screen personality, Sally O'Neil, in "Mike," which also featured Charles Murray, Ford Sterling and William Haines. "Mike" is a rollicking comedy.

It concerns the life of a section hese family, which is mothered by the eldest daughter, in a desert railroad town. Their home is an ingeniously appointed box car, and their existence is not forceful but quite adventurous and amusing.

The vaudeville bill was topped by Franklyn D'Amore, with Mickey Lopell and Ethel Trusdale. Their offering was called "A Vaudeville Surprise." McLaughlin and Evans were agreeable in their skit, "A Little Side Street," and the Pantheon Sisters and Adelyn Hood gave a splendid musical program.

ANTINOE RESCUE SHOWN BY INTERNATIONAL FILM

Exclusive motion pictures of the rescue of the crew of the British freighter Antinoe by the American liner President Roosevelt, are being shown today at leading motion pictures theatres exclusively by International Newsreel, through the cooperation of officials of the United States Lines.

One of the passengers aboard the President Roosevelt captured the motion picture camera. This passenger, Lester Carlyle, big game hunter on his way to Africa, secured the only motion pictures of actual rescue through the mountainous seas for International Newsreel. International Newsreel also shows the honors accorded the crew of the President Roosevelt in Europe and upon the arrival in New York.

HEAVY ADVANCE SALE FOR 'BEN HUR' IN FILM

There is convincing evidence through advance mail orders that the coming engagement of the picture of "Ben Hur," which begins at the Colonial next Monday night, will surpass the vogue the play enjoyed in days of fragrant memory when the dramatized story of Lew Wallace was a prominent as a stage offering. The "Ben Hur" of the cinema with the employment of the newer art and its limitless scope and compr ehensiveness, matches the distinction the story deserves.

PEPPY SHOW AT THE GAYETY

"Seven-Eleven," the all colored show now appearing at the Gayety, is a rattling good show. It is full of speed and "pep" from the very minute the "7-11" jazz orchestra takes its place in the pit until the curtain falls on the last act.

There is a company of tireless songsters, dancers and comics in the cast that is never for a moment allows the entertainment to sag.

And there is a chorus of brown skinned girls, each and every member of which can jump in and do a specialty that is worth while. Garland Howard, Mae Brown, Speedy Smith and Sam Cobb are credited with the authorship of the book, lyrics and music and they have done their work well.

This quartet is also the featured group in the cast.

N. Y. POLICE ORDERED TO HELP ENFORCE 'DRY' LAW

New York, Feb. 16 (A.P.)—The police have been ordered to co-operate with Federal prohibition agents in enforcement of the Volstead Act. The order, by Police Commissioner McLaughlin, comes almost coincidentally with enlargement of the territory assigned to Prohibition Director John A. Foster, and transfer of nine prohibition agents to Philadelphia. The order instructed police to make arrests in all cases involving transportation, large scale manufacturing, selling and possession, in which "a conspiracy may be developed," and in "special cases where instructions come from the divisional prohibition chief or from the U. S. Attorney's office."

LORETTA FAIRBANKS, 50 YEARS IN LYNN, DEAD

The death of Loretta W. Fairbanks, resident of Lynn for half a century and claiming to be related to the late former Vice-President Charles W. Fairbanks, was made known today at the Home for the Aged in Lynn.

For some time the elderly woman had been ill and the real estate and insurance business she began when she settled in Lynn fifty years ago was dropped.

Before she became disabled altogether she had made a living selling flowers and postcards, and was a familiar figure in the city.

MRS. CURLEY ASKED TO QUIT COMMITTEE

City Hall Is Puzzled by Move Over Tercentenary Celebration Plans

This being mystery week—after a fashion—beginning with the mystery of Mayor Nichols' vacation—it was befitting that another mystery should crop up today in connection with the Citizens' Committee of 100 appointed by ex-Mayor Curley for the Boston Tercentenary celebration.

In case some may have forgotten their tercentenary—this will be the observance in 1930 of the 300th anniversary of Boston's settlement.

Last November, Curley named the 100 citizens, and now somebody is interested in having some of the 100 resign.

At least, some of the Curley appointees, including Mrs. Mary E. Curley herself, a vice-chairman, are being sounded out to that end, it became known today.

CITY HALL PUZZLED.

Throughout City Hall there is much speculation as to whether the curiosity originated in Mayor Nichols' office, or whether it came up in the thoughts of some leading committee members with an idea of carrying favor with the new chief executive.

Some speculators conceived the thought that "Curley rule" might be feared on the committees, but this fear, of course, could be nothing but groundless, as Mayor Nichols, during his term, must appoint the remaining 200 members of the ultimate committee of 300 to arrange for the tercentenary celebration.

Under the original plan 100 representative citizens were to be appointed by Mayor Curley in November, 1925, which he did, 100 more in 1927 by the mayor, who, of course, will be Mayor Nichols, and the third 100 in 1929 by the mayor, who will still be Nichols, barring something unforeseen.

QUOTE MRS. CURLEY.

The boys in the know declared today this Mrs. Curley, former Mayor Curley's wife, and Edmund L. Dolan, who is chairman of the finance committee of 100 are two for those who have been "sounded" as to resignations.

According to reliable information, Field Secretary Everett R. Mero, who said he was acting under instructions, telephoned Mrs. Curley and asked her how she felt about resigning.

Mrs. Curley does not mince words in her statements and she is understood to have replied:

"Why should Mayor Nichols ask me or anyone else to resign? He won't be Mayor in 1930."

That settled that and Mrs. Curley went to Florida with "Curley."

BOGAN DENIES SOUNDING.

Dolan likewise was short and terse in his reply in the same vein, declaring it made no difference with the committee who was mayor.

Then Dr. Fred L. Bogan, chairman of the School Committee, and a member of the 100 committee, was asked if he had been sounded, he said he had not been, but would refuse to resign, naturally, if he were asked.

Reporters today sought out A. C. Ratchesky, another vice-chairman of the committee, to ask him about the mystery, but through a secretary he referred them to William A. Gaston, chairman of the general committee. Chairman Gaston referred the footsore reporters back to Vice-Chairman Ratchesky.

And there's the mystery as it stands.

PARKER URGES MORE PAY FOR STATE EMPLOYES

The present system of classification and pay standards of state employes has resulted in serious demoralization of this service, said former Attorney-General Herbert Parker, defending a bill for new classification and compensation before the legislative committee on public service today.

The bill was on petition of Elmer C. Houdlette, president of the Massachusetts Engineers' Association, Mr. Houdlette said the object of the bill was to improve the status of such persons in the state service.

Joseph H. O'Connor, secretary, produced figures to prove the low salaries of such state employes.

BATTLING TO SAVE GLOUCESTER

A glimpse of Gloucester's desperate fight to save business district from destruction by fire. Smoke clouds rise from the wooden department store building of W. D. Brown on narrow Main street. Fire spread to the wooden building adjoining, worked into a brick building in the rear, and threatened the postoffice and other nearby buildings. Loss is estimated at more than $100,000.

200 GIRLS FLEE $100,000 FIRE

Working back, it spread into a four-story brick building at the rear containing stores and halls and threatened another brick structure of the North Shore Trust Company and the American Express Company.

OVER $100,000 LOSS.

Although first estimates of the loss carried it as high as $600,000, desperate battling by Gloucester and outside firemen kept it down to a bit over $100,000, with a possibility that it might go higher, when loss in stock of other concerns by smoke and water had been checked.

Every available fireman and piece of apparatus battled the flames when it was feared that their sweep might level the business district.

A fireboat was called and pumped water from a wharf through a quarter of a mile of hose, doing effective work.

When the local Federal building was menaced, the Postoffice fire crew went into operation, checking the spread of flames on the Federal building side.

RACE FOR LIVES.

In the Brown block, in addition to the department store where the fire is believed to have started, were quartered the McMillan jewelry shop, Brown's radio and music store and the photographer's shop of A. Kippenhan.

The stock in all these places was converted into ashes and a total loss.

In an adjoining building 200 women and girl employes of the North Shore Dress Company had just settled down to work when the cry of fire rang through the structure, with the opening of the department store.

Leaving their benches, the girls raced down the stairs to the safety of the street just as other workers in th establishments near by fled their offices and workrooms.

DOOMED AT START.

It is believed that the fire had been smoldering through the night and that opening of the department store doors and windows when employes arrived for the business day, created a draft that fanned the dormant flame into life.

The flames seemed to puff up in sheets and ran rapidly through the old building, barely affording the employes time to flee to the street unscorched.

When the firemen arrived it was seen that the department store building was doomed and they devoted their efforts toward checking spread of the flames to the nearby build lings.

Builders Spent $6,600,000,000 During 1925

Washington, Feb. 16.—American building, regarded by economists as the surest barometer of the prosperity of the country, broke all records, for normal years, in 1925, the Federal Reserve Board announced today.

New construction amounted to approximately $6,600,000 and exceeded that of 1924 by 26 per cent.

Experts consider the enormous building activities mainly responsible for business advances of a year already marked by the greatest industrial productivity in history.

FIRE CHIEF IS OVERCOME

District Chief Charles A. Donahue was carried to station house quarters overcome by smoke, and several other firemen were revived in the open air, early today, when fire raced through the Prince Building in Devonshire street and Congress square. Property loss was fixed at $10,000.

Donahue was in the building with his men and fighting for nearly two hours before the smoke overcame him.

Starting in the vicinity of Clark's restaurant, basement of Nos. 22 and 24 Congress square, flames sped along wire conduits in the wall direct to the top floor.

Office room walls, law firms being the majority tenants, were torn apart before the course of the blaze was located.

Pain of "Freak" Child Drives Dad to Suicide

London, Feb. 16 (I.N.S.).—Henry Jayes, wounded in the back during the World War, shot himself to death today because he said his baby had been born with a hole in its back corresponding to his own.

When Jayes suffered from the wound, it was stated, the baby also suffered and cried aloud, driving the father frantic.

DOOM OF 'SHAME DEATH' FIENDS BEING SEALED

San Diego, Calif., Feb. 16 (I.N.S.).—Mexican justice, once started the swiftest in the world, may descend tomorrow on the seven men accused of outraging the two girls of the Tijuana Police family.

Judge Sam Urloe of the Court of the First Instance, Tia Juana, last only until Wednesday noon to decide whether the men are to be given a further hearing or immediately shot to death.

A firing squad was reported to be the fate of at least three of the men held responsible for the "shame deaths" of the girls and their father and mother, who committed suicide rather than face life after their harrowing experience in the border town.

Dr. E. C. Lee and Dr. Edward Chamberlain, of San Diego visited the Tia Juana jail at the request of Mexican authorities and examined Zenaldo Llamo, deposed Tia Juana police chief, alleged leader of the accused men, who claims he was physically incapable of the crimes with which he is charged. Their report was to be mailed today to Mayor F. Palacois of the border town.

A heavy guard was thrown around the Tia Juana courtel where the seven accused are held to prevent a last minute effort to escape.

Should any of the men succeed in getting outside the prison orders have been issued to "shoot them down on sight."

Five saloons in the vice town have been closed and fifty more were to be closed today, Mexican authorities said.

Cleaning up of Tia Juana was well under way today. One hundred girls were sent across the border. Many men, including bankers of the town and saloon, went with them.

MUTE CANNOT DEFAULT IF NOT AT OWN TRIAL

A deaf mute cannot be defaulted in court, even though he fails to appear for trial, Pyle was informed today when Judge Parmenter first ordered Georgiana Kavarian of Kneeland street defaulted when he did not answer a charge of larceny, then decided Kavarian, even it present, could not hear. Technically, Judge Parmenter decided, Kavarian might be sitting in the courtroom, so he sent Special Officer Horrigan to find him.

Medical Examiner Magrath will perform an autopsy.

WAR GRAVE MOVIES WIN SUPPORT FOR MEMORIAL

Using moving pictures to illustrate his argument for a measure to appropriate $100,000 for the completion of a memorial on Mt. Mitchel for Massachusetts' hero dead in France, Representative Slater Washburn of Worcester won a favorable report from legislative committee.

The battlefield as shown on the screen revealed the graves of the dead overgrown with weeds.

WOMEN FLOCK TO HEALTH SQUAD DRILL

Wrist Watch Prize Offered to Most Proficient in Evening American Classes

Do you want a perfect figure, girls?

Then join the Boston Evening American Health Squad and it will be yours. You'll learn soon enough how to drop an extra pound or two.

The law of exercise works both ways. You also may put on weight, if you wish to. The Health Squad surely does both really well. It's riotously fun with beneficial results for your sacrifice of an evening.

Each squad drills Monday and Thursday nights and the first of the series of Boston Evening American Health nights held last night at the Chest street roundabout attracted anxious misses all bent on one purpose—perfect figure. New members are admitted every evening so it is never too late to begin. Just follow the crowd Thursday night to the Roundabout and presumably devote gym suit to it o'clock.

"There's a perfect figure for every age," John A. Lane, director of Boston's physical education, told the girls. "No woman is too old to thrive at figure improvement. Girls and think of future improvement long before their school days end, for it takes those times as long to lose excess weight or to regain it.

"Any girl who wants to attain that perfect figure need only join the Boston Evening American Health and and work on a scientific basis. She will either take off or put on flesh as her system demands, for once she will be following a special exercise and diet program here figure will improve without injuring the appearance of her face.

"And speaking about saving, Cut a term out. Cut out all pastries and candies and sodas and syrupy fudge sundaes. You can't get thin while you eat those delicacies."

A beautiful wrist watch is offered as prize to the woman most proficient in her class. The only equipment necessary is the regulation gymnasium costume of bloomers, middy and sneakers. Simple exercises are taught in the beginning and as the class proceeds more difficult ones are given. Health and diet talks will be given by expert authorities. Join the squad and grow thin under the instruction of William M. Mullen.

WITNESS SAYS TOM QUIGLEY WARNED WOMAN DURING RAID

to spend the night in East Cambridge jail.

After announcing that the government rested, Attorney Williams stated that the government lacked sufficient evidence against certain of the defendants to warrant their cases going to the jury. He added that he was prepared to submit the names of these men to the court. This was done, and the jury was ordered to bring in verdicts of not guilty regarding them. Court then adjourned until tomorrow morning.

[illegible] witness of the day, from direct examination by Assistant District Attorney Hubert [illegible].

Q.—Some time around the beginning of 1924 you were in Williams street, Chelsea? A.—Yes.

Q.—When was it exactly? A.—It was the last part of December, 1923.

Q.—Who or what did you see there? A.—I saw a number of police officers there.

Q.—What were they doing? A.—They were making a general raid on all the stores on the street.

Q.—Can you name any stores they went in? A.—Yes, into Berger's, Bonica Barlow's.

Q.—Did you do anything yourself? A.—Yes.

Q.—What did you do? A.—I went into Gerscovitz' store.

Q.—Who was in there? A.—Tom Quigley and Mrs. Gerscovitz.

Q.—What did you see if anything? A.—I saw Mrs. Gerscovitz emptying bottles into a sink in a rear room.

Q.—Where was Tom at that time? A.—He was standing right near her.

Q.—What did anyone say? A.—I heard Tom Quigley say, "Hurry up, they may come in here any minute."

Q.—See any other officers in the store besides Quigley? A.—No.

Q.—See any other officers come in afterward? A.—No.

Q.—Do you recall testifying last Friday that there was a raid at your store? A.—It wasn't a raid, they just came into the store.

Q.—Who went into the store? A.—Tom Quigley was one.

Q.—Any officers with him at that time? A.—Yes, Walter Bardell.

Q.—Is he a defendant here? A.—I believe he is.

Q.—What was the amount of liquor taken out of Gerscovitz's garage? A.—22 gallons of moonshine, one hydrometer and one sterilizer.

Atty. Caro began cross examination here. Witness said before he entered the liquor business he had been employed for 11 years as cigar maker.

Q.—It was in 1922 that you started the liquor business in Chelsea? A.—I think so.

Q.—Where was that place of business? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—Where did you live in Chelsea in 1922? A.—No. 8 Maple street.

Q.—At one time did you live on Poplar street? A.—Yes, I lived at No. 66 Poplar street.

Q.—Ever live at No. 701 Poplar street? A.—No, that is a four-car garage.

Q.—Did you know where Gerscovitz lived? A.—Chestnut street.

Q.—Did Hiller garage belong to Gerscovitz? A.—Yes.

Q.—How long were you in business with Gerscovitz? A.—About a month.

Q.—You testified that you later engaged a place in Chelsea other than Gerscovitz? A.—Yes, the corner of Pearl and Marginal streets.

Q.—At that time you didn't keep your liquor in your store did you? A.—I did.

Q.—Didn't you keep it in a blacksmith shop nearby? A.—No.

Q.—Wasn't there a blacksmith shop next your place of business? A.—Yes.

Q.—You had access to it, didn't you? A.—No, I went over there and talked with the blacksmith.

Q.—You had two men working for you in the store? A.—Yes.

Q.—Didn't they keep half a pint on the hip to sell to customers? A.—No.

Q.—Where did you conceal the liquor in your store? A.—It was not really concealed. It was out of the way so that people couldn't see it from the outside. The Federal agents found it on two occasions. I kept it in the room during the day, and in the shop at night.

Questioned further, the witness said he did not specialize in the "pocket business."

The witness was next taken for cross-examination by Attorney Essex Abbott. He was questioned briefly, on one occasion the witness saying that he would not answer as the answer might incriminate him.

Then Atty. Feeney took the witness for cross-examination.

Q.—Now referring to your visit to the mayor's office. When you were there did the mayor say to you: "Can you give me the names of anybody engaged in the manufacture or sale of liquor in Chelsea and I will put them out of business?" A.—He didn't say just that.

Q.—You and the mayor were angry? A.—He was at first.

Q.—You're sure that you weren't? A.—Somewhat.

Q.—Didn't you tell the district attorney last Friday all that was said by you and by the mayor? A.—I gave him the substance of it.

Q.—Did you purposely keep anything back? A.—No.

Q.—Since you moved to Revere in 1923 have you engaged in the liquor business? A.—Since I lived there, yes, but never in Revere.

Q.—Where did you engage in this liquor business, in Chelsea? A.—Yes.

Q.—Anywhere else? A.—I like to save my rights. I have some cases pending against me in the federal court here.

NO HOPE OF 'L' FARE CUT IN YEARS

Restoration of the local short-run, five-cent fare on the Elevated is the only fare reduction in sight, under any plan, for years to come Representative Henry L. Shattuck of Boston today told a committee of the Legislature.

He urged adoption of a recommendation by a special committee, of which he is chairman, that public operation of the road be extended thirty years with a reduction in common stock dividends.

A minority report by Representative Francis X. Coyne of Boston called for complete public ownership.

"I see no prospect for reduction of fares for somey ears to come under any plan, with the exception of the restoration of the local 5-cent fare," Representative Shattuck said. "Whether this can be accomplished, depends largely on whether labor costs can be controlled."

Frederic E. Snow, counsel for the road, doubted if extension of public control for thirty years with a dividend rate of 5 per cent. would restore stock to par.

He contended that stockholders ought not to be asked to make "this sacrifice in a cut in dividend rate."

In answer to a question from Senator William J. Francis of Charlestown, Snow said the directors are ready to take the road back if it is decided to return to it.

CANCER GERM DISCOVERY IS PROCLAIMED

Berlin, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Discovery and isolation of the cancer bacillus is claimed by Dr. Josef Schumacher.

Addressing the Microbiological Society, Dr. Schumacher said that the bacillus was extremely large and shaped like the letter S, with nodules at the ends.

It was visible under a microscope magnifying only sixty times, he said, and was found in such enormous numbers as to constitute 10 per cent. of the mass of the entire cancerous area.

Dr. Schumacher said the difficulty had been in finding a color solution to make the bacillus visible. He believes cancer to be an infectious disease, bacilli being found in the cartilaginous tissues and the walls of the arteries and veins of healthy persons.

The bacillus is killed, he said, by the lymphatic secretions, and he believes a cure can be found not so much by treating affected areas as by stimulating the lymphatic glands to greater secretion.

IF RHEUMATIC EAT NO SWEETS

Says glass of salts help to overcome Rheumatism acid.

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly, keep the feet dry, avoid exposure, and above all, drink plenty of good water and avoid eating sweets of all kinds.

Rheumatism is caused by body waste and acids resulting from food fermentation. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this poison from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this waste and acids, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain, called rheumatism. At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is helpful to neutralize acidity, remove waste matter, also to stimulate the kidneys, that often ridding the blood of rheumatic poison.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.

FLOSSIE and MARY ROSE MIDDLETON are two pretty sisters, the daughters of a widowed mother. They work for Dexter & Co., big Congress street bond firm.

Mary Rose is secretary to the sales manager, JOHN MANNERS, and is in love with him. But he's engaged to DORIS

MINIC, an heiress. Because of her feeling for him, Mary Rose repeatedly refuses to marry DR. TOM FITZROY

Flossie, a born vamp, is carrying on a wild flirtation with the married head of the concern, HILARY DEXTER, although she is going to marry his secretary, SAM JESSUP

John Manners falls in love with Mary Rose and tells her so. Then the sisters quarrel, and to "get even" with Mary Rose Flossie tells John that Mary Rose is "just stringing him along" and really intends to marry Tom Fitzroy. John believes the connivening he and Mary Rose is hurt and puzzled by his coldness. She decides to leave Dexter's.

One night Dexter goes too far in his love making and Flossie learns how little respect a married man has for the girl who runs around with him. She quits her job the next day and elopes with Sam Jessup. From the beginning of the honey moon they quarrel about money. Flossie buys such foolish extravagances as real lace tablecloths, and then cries when the money is all gone and because she hates married life.

Mary Rose leaves Dexter's and gets a new job as secretary to a steel man, JIM MORRELL, whose jealous wife drives him frantic with her spy system. Mary Rose advises him to discharge her and get a man for his secretary.

One Sunday morning Flossie comes in tears to her mother's house. Sam has found the jewelry Dexter gave her long before and the two have had a rousing battle about it. As she tells her mother about it, the sound of Sam's automobile is heard outside

AN AMERICAN FRIEND

I AM always happy when I hear someone from a foreign land praising one of my countrymen. It is a feeling we should have the world over, and it should be encouraged.

So I am going to praise one of your countrymen—one of your best Americans, a man any country could be proud of, your former Minister to Rumania, Mr. Peter Jay.

I am pround of being one of Mr. Jay's friends, each with his own special character and temperament, not mere fixtures made for our pleasure and use.

What sunsets we've looked on, and, having confidence in each others' loyalty, what important problems have we discussed together in our mutual desire that our countries should be friends!

Now he has gone to honor his country in another place, Buenos Aires, and I wish him luck, for I miss his exhilarating friendship, his boyish, kindly heart, his American enthusiasm and frankness and his everlasting loyalty to his native land. Ah, the little shepherd boys on the plains about Bucharest keep wondering what has happened to the solid rider who used to pass by with their Queen, the wonderful American gentleman whose pockets were so full of pennies and whose face of cheer

HELEN BATTLES FIERCELY AS SUZANNE WINS

HELEN IS BEATEN IN DOUBLES

Suzanne and Partner Win by 6—4, 8—6 in Finals on Cannes Courts

Cannes, France, Feb 16 (A.P.)—Suzanne Lenglen gained a second victory over Helen Wills today when [illegible] the finals of the women's doubles [illegible] tournament [illegible] French champion and Mlle. Didi Vlasto defeated the American [illegible] 6—4, 8—6.

Suzanne may thank her partner for this afternoon's victory. She played an erratic game, but Mlle. Vlasto always backed her and made good many of the errors made by the champion.

At the end of the match Suzanne was virtually in a state of collapse. She dragged herself from the courts and slumped down on the first her she could find.

Mme. Lenglen ran out from the [illegible] threw a coat over the shoulders of her daughter and held a glass of white [illegible] while Suzanne took a deep draught.

'Helen Will Win Yet,' Says Father

BERKLEY, Cal., Feb 16 (I N S).—"Helen will play better next time. She is bound to win eventually."

This was the comment made by Dr. C. A. Wills, Berkley physician and father of America's tennis ace, when he learned that his daughter had been defeated by Mlle. Lenglen.

"She put up a good fight," he continued, "and I look for a different result when they meet at Wimbledon in June."

second set, while Miss Wills scored only one love victory, the first game in the second set. Eight games went to deuce, each taking four. Mlle. Lenglen scored a total of 83 points against 65 for Miss Wills.

Miss Wills staged one of the most dramatic tennis struggles in the history of the game, and the result was in doubt until the last point.

[illegible]

"It was not a very hard match," she said, but the bewildered almost frightened look on her face seemed to tell a somewhat different story, while her heaving breast showed the emotion under which she had been laboring.

[illegible]

Never was a tennis match disputed under such extraordinary conditions. The spectators applauded and cheered as if witnessing a prize fight.

[illegible]

Suzanne has never been kept more busy on the courts than during the second set, when she was on the defensive the greater part of the time.

[illegible]

Wills away in his automobile.

Even to this close friend, all she would say was: "There will be other tennis matches. There are other years coming."

The match as a whole failed to provide the high class quality of tennis that the spectators expected from two such champions.

Both girls were extremely careful, taking absolutely no chances and [illegible] the base lines throughout the two sets.

Mlle. Lenglen won through superior steadiness, making fewer errors than the American girl.

Miss Wills had the point set when leading at five games to four in the second set, but through an apparent error on the part of a lineman a ball was called good which thousands of spectators were certain was plainly outside.

This seemed to unnerve the American girl, and from then on her game lacked the speed and enthusiasm to which she has accustomed the Riviera fans.

The point score of the first set:

Takes Cognac

Cannes, Feb. 16 (A.P.)—Suzanne began to cough, placed a hand over her heart, and stepping to the sideline, asked one of the persons in attendance for cognac with a little water. Spurred by the stimulant, the French girl won the next three games.

RECAPITULATION

[illegible]

Helen's Courage Beaten by Suzanne's Skill

By FREDERICK M. ABBOTT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

[illegible] the hardest battles of her career when she defeated Helen Wills, American champion, 6—3, 8—6.

The indomitable courage of Helen of Berkeley was not quite equal to the experienced skill of Suzanne of Nice.

The Californian was in her best fighting mood. The crowds were tense with excitement. The match seesawed back and forth and reached a climax in the twelfth game.

[illegible]

[illegible] Suzanne had been given a bad decision. Despite the uproar the California girl smashed out and won the game, making it 6 all.

There was great excitement in the [illegible]

[illegible] Miss Wills rushed to meet a drive from the French girl and stumbled. The stumble gave the vantage point to Suzanne and may have changed the whole tide of the game.

Never in her three years as a champion has Miss Wills [illegible] a show of foot.

Today she was almost as fast on her feet as Suzanne, notwithstanding a slight limp the result of yesterday's fall.

[illegible]

Suzanne, the veteran [illegible] mature woman, [illegible] youngster of twenty.

Already the fans are talking about the next time. There are reports of a revenge match upon private courts here.

[illegible]

Wills is at her heels.

Three times during the second set Helen took the lead away from Suzanne.

The nonchalance of Mlle. Lenglen disappeared during [illegible] ing set. With the score four to three against her, the French girl changed her tactics and began playing most cautiously.

"Little Poker Face" remained cool and calm, but the temperamental Pavlowa of the tennis courts was so nervous that she glanced with seeming distress toward the crowds when the ball was not in play.

Cool courtesy prevailed throughout. Suzanne has never lost any [illegible] severe test. Today was no exception.

As the two fighting players changed courts Suzanne deliberately turned her head away from the California girl, who looked straight ahead with full composure, not to be nettled by what may have been meant for a slight.

The game fight made by Helen in the second set amazed the Ameri-

[illegible] top net to drop deceptive shots in Suzanne's court and then [illegible] apparently ungettable backhand shots to Suzanne's base line.

The great battle started in a storm of French invectives. Suzanne, the super-champion, was in an ill humor and her first act upon reaching the courts was to vehemently berate the "caddies" for not passing the balls to her as fast as she would like.

[illegible]

Suzanne halted play while she insisted that the officials silence the crowds outside.

[illegible]

Again the French girl rallied and won the eighth game, four to one, making it five games to three.

Suzanne breathing hard and apparently hard pressed won the ninth game and the first set, 6—3.

Suzanne made it all square [illegible]

[illegible]

Helen, however, staged a fine rally and annexed the seventh game and won, after deuce was called four times, eight to six. This was the hottest game of the battle thus far and gave Miss Wills a lead of 4—3 in games.

[illegible]

Suzanne won the thirteenth, this making it 7—6 in games.

Then came the grand climax. The fourteenth and decisive game was under way with both girls fighting doggedly. [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] like tearing pages from the social register and Burke's peerage.

Royalty Mingles With Great Crowd at Tennis Match

Cannes, France, Feb. 16 — The skies were overcast and the courts of the Carlton Club soggy from recent rains as Helen, garbed in the conventional white and the eyeshade which has been adopted by the style makers of Europe, tripped gaily on the court, four racquets tucked under each arm.

Before the match started the odds had shortened to 2½ to 1, with Suzanne on the long end. However [illegible] the $100,000 which had been put up by a Greek gambling syndicate on the French girl had been entirely covered.

[illegible] sented in the audience. Former King Manuel of Portugal, for whom a seat in the distinguished guests' row finally was found, and Prince George of Greece sat through the entire match.

HELEN WILLS

Suzanne Sleeps but 6 Hours 'Night Before'

Cannes, France, Feb. 16 (Universal).—The prospects of the biggest match of her career did not alter Suzanne Lenglen's habit of staying out late at night.

She stayed overnight at the villa of Mrs. Isaac Blumenthal, attending a small dinner party given in her honor. This morning, after about six hours sleep, Suzanne said,

"I was never sleepy in the daytime before, so why should I have done any different last night."

It is well known that Suzanne does not follow any training rules and drinks white and red wine.

Helen Says:

Cannes, France, Feb. 16 (I.N.S.)—"I enjoyed the match extremely."

Helen Wills made this brief statement at the end of her great match today. She would make no further comment on the match, or her opponent's play. She appeared oblivious to the fact that the entire world had been tremendously thrilled by her struggle.

Miss Wills was the first to shake the hand of Mlle. Lenglen. She rushed to the net to congratulate her conqueror.

Suzanne Says:

Cannes, France, Feb. 16.—Mlle. Lenglen is not proud of her victory over Helen Wills. She made this confession to the International News Service today.

"I am not at all proud of the way I played," said Suzanne. "All of the flowers I received don't please me. I don't deserve them."

As soon as she was able to free herself from the crowds she jumped into her auto and drove to Nice to tell her invalid father all of the details of the match.

"I didn't sleep a wink all night and I was more nervous than I have ever been," Mlle. Lenglen said.

"I was annoyed at the way the crowd acted.

"Tennis is becoming like boxing and spectators are taking it upon themselves to decide whether a ball is good or not, or whether a fault has been made. This is most annoying to both players."

"I never saw Helen play better than she did today," added Mlle. Lenglen. "However, I was more interested in her play today than ever before."

Consolation Match for Loser

Cannes, Feb. 16.—While all the Riviera is in a state of great expectancy over the battle across the nets, there already is on foot a plan by which the loser may have a chance again to meet the winner before the end of the present month.

Frank J. Gould announces the offer of a $1,000 gold cup for a tournament in women's singles to be played on his courts here. Invitations are to be sent to the eight best women players now on the Riviera or in France. Invitations already have been sent to Mlle. Lenglen and Miss Wills. Mlle. Didi Vlasto, Mme. Billout of France and Miss Harvey and Mrs. Satterthwaite of England will be among those asked to compete. The tournament will last three days.

"Will Win Next Time!" Tennis Head Cables

[illegible]

What Round?

A member of the Boston American staff, thinking a friend in Lynn might be interested in the outcome of the tennis match between Suzanne Lenglen and Helen Wills, called up and said:

"Lenglen beat Wills."

"What round?" asked the friend.

"No, not ROUNDS—sets."

"Huh," mused the friend, "I didn't even know Harry Wills was fightin'."

Then the reporter fainted.

BE A BOSTON BOOSTER

In Defeat, Helen Is in Hall of Fame

New York, Feb. 16 (A.P.)—Only five [illegible] Suzanne Lenglen [illegible] extended such as she was today in winning from Helen Wills. The American champion takes her place beside Elizabeth Ryan, Kathleen McKane, Molla B. Mallory and Mrs. Lambert Chambers as the stars who have put the French girl's ability to severe tests.

Mrs. Mallory is the only player of these five with a victory over Mlle. Lenglen [illegible]

[illegible]

French star atoned for this setback by crushing defeats of Mrs. Mallory abroad in 1922, at 6—2, 6—0, and in 1923, at 6—0, 6—0.

Thus Mrs. Mallory in three contests with Suzanne failed to win as many games as Helen did today in one match.

The Break

Cannes, Feb. 16 (A.P.)—Miss Wills changed over to receive Suzanne's service, thinking she had won her own, when she was called back.

"What did you call that?" she asked Mr. Tolley, showing emotion for the first time.

"Inside," Tolley replied.

Helen threw both hands in a gesture of despair while thousands of spectators [illegible] end of the court shouted: "Out!"

From then on the American girl put up a spiritless fight, and allowed Mlle. Lenglen to take the initiative. She went down 6—3, and then the set at six-all, but, although she brought the last two games to deuce, the old spirit was missing.

Famous Educator Writes About the Way With Mothers

By H. L. Manning

WAY out be[illegible] house [illegible]

Such enthusiasm, such a running [illegible] and fro, such a bringing of cots and blankets and pans and knives [illegible] was never known outside of camp.

So that's why small Glen Caldwell ran swiftly homeward to secure his share of the camp equipment.

"Mother would you please let me take eight slices of bacon and some potatoes over where we are camping?" asked an anxious voice [illegible] half of a [illegible] mixture of perspiration, soot and just plain dirt.

"[illegible] a fire over there?" asked the mother, who was nervous.

"Yes, they have a fire, but I declare to goodness I won't go within three feet of the fire, [illegible] give me the bacon. All the other boys brought something to cook."

"Very well, take it. But remember, [illegible]"

"Yes'm, I [illegible] mom," Son [illegible] as he crammed potatoes into his pocket [illegible]

[illegible] boy dragged his weary [illegible] back home. There was a [illegible] look in his eyes and a pain in his tummy.

"Did you have a good time, Glenn?" asked his mother.

"I did [illegible] the boys got mad."

"What did they get mad about?"

"Oh, just something about the dinner burning a little."

"Did you cook your bacon and potatoes?"

"Yes. Only the meat burnt up and the potatoes didn't get very well done."

"How come you to let the bacon burn?" laughed Mrs. Caldwell.

"Well, while the company was practicing out in the field Henry and I were left to cook the rations. I told Henry I had promised you not to go near the fire and if he would cook, I would bring the wood and water and cut up the potatoes. After he put the things on to cook he told me to watch them until he spoke to the captain. When the bacon began to burn, I called him, but he wouldn't come; so it just burnt up."

"Well, you little idiot. Did you stand there and let the dinner burn up and you looking at it?" exclaimed the mother.

"Yes, mother, but you told me—"

"Well, I did not mean for you to act that foolish."

Glenn, being a perfect gentleman, did not answer back, but tactfully tried to change the subject. "The potatoes were pretty good," he said "except they burned a little and they didn't get quite done."

"How many of those half done potatoes did you eat?" cried the anxious mother.

"A good many," moaned Glenn with both hands over his aggravating organ of digestion.

"I just felt this morning, that I ought not to let you go to that camp," declared Mrs. Caldwell, rising slowly and going toward the medicine chest.

"That's just the way with mothers," whispered Sonny as he folded his arms across his little middle, and put his head down on his knee.

Pointers and Recipes From Martha Lee's Pen

Economical Cakes and Cookies

ABOUT nine out of every ten recipe requests are for cakes and cookies, so I have gathered together a few of the simpler ones for you to paste in your pretty white Martha Lee scrapbook (by the way, I've had a second edition of the scrapbooks prepared and they are waiting for your orders at 75c each! Picture of Martha Lee inside, 'n everything).

Here's an extremely good pineapple cake (and by the way, if you will use a certain flour that is made just especially for cakes, not a ready prepared flour, but just a cake flour, your cakes will have a new and tender moistness).

PINEAPPLE CAKE.

- 1 cup fat.
- 1 cup sugar.
- 3 egg yolks.
- ¾ cup syrup drained from pineapple.
- 2 cups cake flour.
- ¼ teaspoon salt.
- 4 teaspoons baking powder.
- 3 egg whites.

Cream fat and sugar together until light and add egg yolks. Mix and sift flour, salt and baking powder. Add alternately with pineapple syrup. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in layer cake pans in moderate oven 20 to 25 minutes.

Sponge cake is always popular and here's one not hard to make and one of the best.

SPONGE CAKE.

- 2 whole eggs.
- 1 yolk of egg.
- ½ cup sugar.
- ½ cup cake flour.
- Grated rind of ½ a lemon.
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice.

Beat yolk until thick, add sugar gradually, beating constantly. Add flavoring. Fold in flour alternately with white of egg. Do not stir—beat and fold. Bake about 25 minutes.

Here's a recipe that must be served very often in New England homes according to the number of requests that I have received for it.

MOCK ANGEL FOOD.

- 1 cup sugar.
- 1½ cups sifted cake flour.
- ½ teaspoon salt.
- 1 cup boiling milk.
- 3 egg whites.
- 3 teaspoons baking powder.
- Flavoring.

Sift together twice the sugar, flour and salt. Add milk, being sure it is really boiling hot when added. Flavor. Fold the stiffly beaten whites onto this mixture, sift the baking powder over the whites and cut and fold into the cake. Pour into tube pan and bake in moderate oven for about 40 minutes.

The next time the storm keeps you in, do take the opportunity to make these truly mouth-watering nut cookies.

NUT COOKIES.

- 1 cup brown sugar.
- 1 cup white sugar.
- 1¼ cups melted shortening.
- 1 teaspoon salt.
- 5 cups cake flour, sifted twice.
- 3 eggs, well beaten.
- 2 teaspoons soda.
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon or other spices.
- 1 cup chopped nuts.

Cream shortening and sugar, and add the eggs slowly, mixing thoroughly. Add the nuts and then the dry ingredients sifted together twice. Shape into a roll about 2 to 3 inches in diameter. Put into buttered pan to cool over night. When ready to bake, slice and bake in hot oven. Makes about 75 cookies.

Do let me know what you'd like me to write about for you. Of course, if I don't hear from you, I'll know you think the column is perfect.

BARTLETT TO BE HEARD IN BOSTON

By FRANK H. MELOON, Financial Editor.

Pacific Mills stock, since passing of dividend recently, has been doing little but rally. There are a good many people who have strong faith in the future of this company. At the annual meeting of Pacific Mills Daniel G. G. Wing was added to the board of directors.

DX Conditions Last Night

Conditions showed considerable improvement. The static still seems to be quite heavy. Reception was obtainable from New York and Philadelphia stations, but I heard nothing worth while from any greater distance. Some excellent programs were obtainable from local and semi-local stations.

MEDICO DINNER WNAB FEATURE

Tonight at 8:30 p. m. station WNAB, the Shepard Stores, operating on 250 meters, will broadcast direct from the Hotel Somerset the annual alumni banquet of the Middlesex College of Medicine and Surgery. A number of musical selections and some excellent talks will feature this broadcast.

Leo Reisman and his orchestra will furnish the musical part of the program, which includes selections from "No, No, Nannette," and a number of other popular numbers. Dr. Sterling C. Wyman, commissions of lunacy of New York speaker on "The Vagaries of Medicine."

John Drew —Himself Tonight

at 9 P. M.
(Eastern Standard Time)

JOHN DREW will appear personally before the microphone to re-enact some of the scenes that merge indelibly with his fame—to read some of his humorous poems—to chat informally with you.

Millions have applauded him—other millions have not had that privilege.

Tonight, everyone will want to take advantage of this unparalleled opportunity to hear John Drew—himself.

WBZ TO GIVE HOCKEY GAME

When the Boston Bruins and Pittsburgh clash tonight at the Arena listeners will be able to follow the players up and down the ice through the eyes and voice of Frank Ryan. With the Bruins staging a great comeback, this game with Pittsburgh should be filled with thrills of the first order.

Radio Queries

Q. D. N. R. Cambridge. I have a four tube Boston American Super, using UV199 tubes. This set was given to me by a friend last week, and at that time, was working splendidly at his own home. Now I have tried to connect it up at my own home, and am unable to get anything out of it. The tubes seem to light, and all batteries are new. Can you help me?

A. Thank you for sending me a sketch. This has simplified things a lot. You have your dry cells connected up wrong. You now have the four cells connected in parallel. The proper battery connection for four UV199 tubes, first of all, calls for six dry cells. These should be connected in multiple-series. I am sending you a sketch for this.

Q. J. H. Charlestown. During the recent storm my single wire antenna blew down, and was buried on the roof under a foot of snow and ice. Not wishing to erect a new antenna under the present bad weather conditions, I attempted to use my set with the old wire. My set is a Crosley Trirdyn. The first night I picked up Kansas City, Davenport and St. Louis. On the next night I pulled in 6KW Cuba, a station in New Orleans, and WFAA, Dallas, Texas. How do you account for this?

A. I wouldn't attempt to account for it. Have had the same thing happen to my own equipment, and spent more than one sleepless night trying to figure it out. According to all known theories, your antenna should be grounded when buried in ice, and laying on a roof. However, some effect might be present which would cause the "ground" to assist, rather than detract from your efficiency.

It's John Drew

Once more John Drew is to feel the joy of delighting the public. Tonight he will be the feature of the Eveready Hour broadcast by WEEI. His decision to go on the air means that he is soon to face the largest audience of his career. Capacity houses are no novelty to Mr. Drew, but now he is to play for half the United States over a network of 15 stations. The program will be made up of several short readings from his most important roles, including excerpts from "The Taming of the Shrew," in which, as Petruchio, he was largely responsible for the remarkable 125-performance run at Daly's some forty years ago.

"Lopez Speaking"

While Graham McNamee is known to thousands of radio fans all over the United States by his cheerful, "Good evening, ladies and gentlemen of the radio audience," and Roxy by his "There you are," Vincent Lopez is equally well known by his salutation, "Lopez speaking."

Ever since Lopez has been on the air, he has followed a distinct line of announcing, never deviating from the set phrase, "The title of the number you just heard was . . . The next number will be . . ." Equally distinctive is Lopez's sign-off song, "On the Radio."

CHARLESTOWN NAVY YARD ASKS CO-OPERATION

ADMIRAL ANDREWS, Commandant at the Charlestown Navy Yard, is desirous of obtaining the co-operation of all local radio fans who can read the International Morse code, to help eliminate the code interference which has been laid at the door of the Navy Yard for some time.

Your radio editor visited Admiral Andrews last Saturday, and was shown through the entire communication department, where a crew of experts were at work making changes in the transmitting equipment.

It was learned that the Admiral himself is an ardent radio fan, and has several types of receiving sets connected up at his residence in the yard.

If you feel that you have a complaint to make, and you can read the code well enough to be SURE it is the Navy Yard station causing the interference, simply quote the facts in a letter and send it to the District Communication Superintendent, Navy Yard, Charlestown. Be sure and mention the time and wave length at which the interference was noticed, and mention any other facts which may be of assistance.

Admiral Andrews states that from time to time urgent storm warnings, etc., must be sent out on high power, and that these might possibly interfere for a time with the local fans. Outside of such urgent transmission, however, the radio audience may be assured that their pleas have been recognized.

Follow these rules for "B" batteries

THESE simple rules will enable you to get months of added service from your "B" batteries as well as greatly improve the quality of reproduction.

On 1 to 3 tubes—Use Eveready No. 772.

On 4 or more tubes — Use the Heavy Duty "B" Batteries, either No. 770, or the even longer-lived Eveready Layerbilt No. 486.

On all but single tube sets—Use a "C" battery.

When these rules are followed, the No. 772 will last for a year or more, and the Heavy Duties for eight months or longer, when listening at the year-round average of two hours a day.

NOTE: In addition to the increased life which an Eveready "C" Battery gives to your "B" batteries, it will add a quality of reception unobtainable without it.

THIRD OLD-TIME DANCE CONTEST THURSDAY

The time is drawing close for the third old-time dance party of the Boston Evening American, but everything is in readiness for the biggest and best of the three parties.

It will be held on Thursday night at the Strand Ballroom, No. 177 Huntington avenue, but tickets are being sold in advance, both at the ballroom and at Classified Corner, No. 92 Summer street.

All the old dances brought back into public favor by Henry Ford will be on the board at this party—the varsovienne, the galop, Virginia reel, polka, duchesse, Portland fancy, mazurka, schottische, gavot and the rest.

There will be another prize waltz, open to all dancers except the first place winners in the first two contests, and there will also be another old-time fiddling contest, with all fiddlers eligible except the winners of the previous such contests.

Tickets for the third dance party are the same price as for the first and second parties—50 cents—and the proceeds will go to charity.

Our advice to you is to make preparations to go. Never before will you have had any more fun.

Ardent "Drys" Take Notice
Wonderful Suzanne
No Words—No Thought
Mrs. Potiphar's Dress

By Arthur Brisbane

(Copyright, 1926, by Star Company)

IF AN AMERICAN wants to travel on legitimate business in Europe, he must get a passport, have his photograph taken, pay money, endure delay.

But if he wants to get into his car and drive to the gin mills, race tracks and other dives at Tia Juana, he needs no passport.

Heaven only knows why things have been arranged so comfortably that there is no interference with the dive resort, just across the California border.

Good prohibitionists can easily interest Secretary Kellogg and President Coolidge in that proposition. This government can apply to Tia Juana's dives severe passport restrictions. Instead of the frontier being wide open at that point, restrictions should be most severe.

HELEN WILLS' defeat by Suzanne Lenglen was one more honor for the marvelous French woman, and no disgrace to the American. Helen Wills is a young girl, her strength only partly developed. Suzanne Lenglen, the world's greatest woman player, at her best in physical strength and will power, could not do better than 6—3, 8—6 against the young American.

IN SUZANNE you see the type of women to whom France owes her power and glory. Such women as Suzanne were mothers of the French soldiers who made good their statement, "They shall not pass," at Verdun.

HELEN WILLS is particularly interesting as a California product. California children grow in strength all year round. In less favored States they grow for six months, then stop growing, waiting for the sun to come out again.

MORAL: Bring up your children in California, and give them a 100 per cent. chance.

PROFESSOR COOVER, head of the psychology department at Stanford University, after 10,000 experiments, announces that telepathy, sending thought from one brain to another, without words or writing, is impossible.

To confirm the statement, you don't need ten thousand experiments. One is enough. Try to THINK without using words in your mind, you will find you cannot do it. The emotions, hate, fear, can be felt without words. You can't THINK without words. Therefore, you can't transfer thought without words. If words, sound waves, hearing, seeing, physical bodies had been superfluous, they would not have been created. Force cannot act without matter.

MOSCOW'S STAGE reduces clothing to minimum. Miss Lybuvovabunk, who plays Potiphar's wife in a play called "Joseph the Beautiful," wore a string of diamonds in her black hair, and "narrow strips of silver cloth across the bust and hips." That's all.

If the original Mrs. Potiphar dressed like that, it is not surprising that Joseph ran. Well brought up, in a quiet Jewish family, he could not do otherwise.

MISS ANITA WHITNEY, earnest, but mistaken young woman, demands repeal of act that in certain States forbids marriage between whites and blacks.

The poet Heine exclaimed, "Oh! liberty, thou wicked dream" when he heard of an American clergyman tarred, feathered and ridden on a rail because he wanted to marry his white daughter to a black man.

LIKE MISS WHITNEY, Heine was mistaken. The right

Women Flee From Boylston St. Runaway

CHARGE OF PERJURY MADE BY COUNSEL OF QUIGLEY

2 Air Majors Punished for "Propaganda"

WILD PANIC AS HORSES BOLT

Two horses, attached to a wagon of the Winter Hill Ice Co., raced in a mad dash along the sidewalk of Boylston street at Tremont today, shattered seven plate glass windows, threw hundreds of pedestrians into a panic and finally were halted by a traffic officer.

During the mad pounding of the horses along the sidewalk, girls, women and men high-jumped, hurdled, sprinted and dove across Boylston street to the open spaces of the Common and safety.

The horses were feeding in Boylston street place when they bolted for no reason that could be learned.

Slewing the wagon out of the alley, they ripped off a metal name plate from the building at No. 114 Boylston street, the jangle and clatter of the metal sign serving as a warning to the pedestrians throughout the thoroughfare, who scattered into the street between the cars lined up waiting for traffic signals to change at Tremont and Tremont.

Heading toward Tremont street, east, the animals raced along the sidewalk, swinging the heavy wagon through the biggest plate glass window in New England, that of the Colonial Piano Co., No. 104 Boylston.

Next they crashed through two plate glass windows of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company office at Nos. 52 and 54, and then sidestepped and shattered four windows of the Crossett Shoe Company at No. 74.

Traffic Officer Corcoran, aided by a battalion of male volunteers, smothered the wild flight by sheer weight of numbers, and the animals were turned over to their driver, Donald MacRae of No. 206 Main street, Cambridge.

CAR KILLS GIRL OF 5

Running merrily across Holland street, West Somerville, on her way to kindergarten, little Lillian Slater, a five-year-old girl, was knocked down and killed today by a heavy, semi-convertible street car.

Motorman Thomas Johnstone of No. 21 Garrison avenue, West Somerville, pleaded not guilty to manslaughter in Somerville court and was released in $2,000 bail on his personal recognizance for a hearing February 25.

Johnstone, Joseph Remie, another Elevated employe, and Patrolman John L. Cameron jacked up the car to remove the body of the girl, who was a State ward and lived with Mrs. Lillian Christian at No. 55 Elmwood street. She was running away in play from a dog when hit.

BACK TO SCHOOL AFTER DIVORCE

Mrs. Vivian M. Davidson, 22, of No. 126 Warren street, Needham, won her suit for divorce in Dedham Probate Court and also the custody of her child, Jean, aged two years. Now she is going to g[illegible] high school diploma.

AVALANCHE KILLS 15, SCORES BURIED ALIVE

Salt Lake City, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Fifteen bodies have been taken from the ruins of several buildings, including the Methodist Church, which were buried under a snowslide in Sap Gulch, near Bingham, eighteen miles southwest of here, today. Estimates of those entombed in snow, rock and brush that slid down the mountain, range between fifty and one hundred. Little hope is held out for their rescue alive. Fires, burning in the buildings when they were crushed under hundreds of tons of debris, imperilled those who may have escaped instant death when their homes were crushed.

They will speak at a mass meeting in Bimba's interest at Pythian Hall, Brockton, next Tuesday evening, and Malone will remain over for Bimba's trial the next day, although charged in Brockton with blasphemy under a law 225 years old.

VERA PUZZLES DAVIS, ASKS SARGENT'S ADVICE

Washington, Feb. 17 (I.N.S.).—The status of Vera, the Countess of Cathcart, appeared extremely uncertain today, while harassed officials of the Department of Labor continued to wrestle with the problem of whether to ship her back to England as an "undesirable" or admit her to the United States.

Whereas yesterday the immigration authorities seemed inclined to stick to their original resolve that the Countess should not pass the barriers at Ellis Island, today their resolution seemed less adamant.

Attorney-General Sargent has been called upon to render advice, but the

WON BY GOOD LOOKS; SORRY

"I'll never again marry a temperamental sheik. He spent his time practising to be an operatic star while baby and I starved. I'll be happy to return to high-school and finish my studies."

That was the declaration of Mrs. Vivian M. Davidson, pretty 23-year-old student girl-wife who was granted a divorce in Dedham Probate Court from Harold Davidson of Weston, on grounds of non-support and cruel and abusive treatment.

"It was a case of love at first sight," said she. "Like most girls I fell for good looks and a suave line of chatter instead of looking for a companion.

"Let my case be a warning to other girls who may be tempted to heed the artificial love call of modern drug-store cowboys."

CHELSEA MAYOR WILL TAKE STAND; CONVICT'S STORY IS ATTACKED

Charges of perjury by government witnesses featured the opening of the defense of Mayor Lawrence F. Quigley and 17 others in the Chelsea rum conspiracy trial in Federal Court today.

Attorney John P. Feeney, counsel for Mayor Quigley and his brother, Inspector "Tom" Quigley, declared he would show the story of the unloading of a three-masted schooner at a Chelsea wharf was not a "figment of the imagination," but was perjury.

He stated he would bring witnesses to testify that no such unloading ever occurred as was described by the government's star witness, Percy Friedman, State Prison inmate.

Attorney Feeney announced that Mayor Quigley would take the stand in his own behalf, and called as his first witness Joseph M. Corley, veteran clerk of the Chelsea District Court.

Clerk Corley testified he had sole jurisdiction over the issuance of search warrants on liquor complaints and that no warrant was issued in the connection in 1924 for

2 MAJORS PUNISHED FOR AIR PROPAGANDA

Washington, Feb. 17 (A.P.).—Majors H. H. Arnold and H. A. Dargue, Army Air Service, have been found responsible for "objectionable activities" in attempting to influence air service legislation and will be reprimanded.

The findings resulted from an investigation ordered by Secretary of War Davis, following distribution of circulars urging support for air service legislation favored by Major-General Mason M. Patrick, chief of the Army Air Service.

Major Arnold is information officer in General Patrick's office, and the general who has been given authority to administer the discipline, found him most culpable and announced that he would be sent to duty outside of Washington. Major Dargue is chief of the war plans division of the air service.

In announcing his findings, General Patrick issued a statement replying to intimations in Congress and elsewhere that the investigation was partly intended by the War Department to force him out of the service. In his belief, he said, "there was absolutely no foundation of fact for any such nonsensical statements."

General Patrick, who made the investigation at the orders of Secretary Davis, submitted his findings today to the secretary, who immediately delegated to him authority to take the proper steps.

DOORS TORN DOWN TO SAVE 4 IN E. BOSTON

Four small children were rescued today at a fire that broke out in the house at No. 118 Brooks street, East Boston, and quickly swept through three other tenements, driving four families, consisting of 27 persons, to the street.

Passers-by, who discovered the fire, broke in the doors to save the children as they lay asleep in bed. Families in adjoining houses were aroused and fled in their night clothes.

The children saved are John McEachern, eight; George, six; Mary, four, and Robert, two years old. Their mother Mrs. Mary McEachern, a widow, was at work and large other children were at an Ash Wednesday mass when the fire threatened to snuff out the lives of the younger children.

FAMILY HOMELESS.

Mrs. McEachern and her brood of seven were made homeless by the flames. She owned the house, a two and a half stark wooden structure.

Hastily summoned from work, she arrived while the fire was still spreading and was fearful that her children were lost, but she found them huddled around the stove in the flat of a neighbor, Mrs. Ellen Dubin, at No. 132 Princeton street.

Little Theodore, Philip and Doretta McEachern returned home from church to find the fire engines filling the street in front of their home and firemen fighting valiantly to save the entire block from going.

The fire started from a defective or overheated furnace. Damage was estimated at $10,000.

Leaping from No. 118 Brooks street the flames ignited the store of Israel Carmen at No. 116 and, burning upwards, drove out Mr. and Mrs. Carmen and two children from the third floor and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Bassett and six children from the second story.

The fire also spread in the op

A GOOD, CLEAN NEWSPAPER

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

BE A BOSTON BOOSTER

Yes, But She Has a Baby

And That's Worth More Than Any Nicely Polished Typewriter, "Generous Boss" or Business Career

Our good and brilliant friend, Dorothy Dix, queen of female philosophers, forgets one thing when she writes this for that learned man, Cyrus H. K. Curtis:

"A girl will tell you that she is going to get married because she is tired of working, and then she will deliberately espouse a poor man and walk out of a mahogany-furnished office into a kitchen, where she will have to slave ten times as hard as she ever worked before.

"Thousands of women marry because they are so afraid of loneliness, yet they could count on the fingers of one hand and have a thumb and little finger to spare all the wives they know who get any companionship from their husbands. A stuffed dummy with a newspaper in its hand is about as chatty as the average husband is at his own fireside, unless company comes in."

At first that sounds convincing, and you say, "Young lady, stick to your typewriter unless your husband can prove that he is rich, kind, a stay-at-home, and loyal unto death."

But philosophical Miss Dix forgets one thing, which is that the girl who marries, even if she marries foolishly, will probably HAVE A BABY.

And a baby that begins to have teeth, to know you, like you, cry when you go away, smile when you come back, and rest its heavy little tired head on your shoulder, is worth more than all the limousines, "soft jobs," generous employers, silk dresses, jazz bands, Charleston steps and other TRASH in the world. Young women, this is FACT, not preaching.

Husbands are imperfect, some of them can't earn a decent living, but somehow the baby LIVES.

Many husbands tire of their wives and wander off to amuse themselves elsewhere. But the baby STAYS AT HOME.

Husbands are VERY imperfect. Woman was made after man, to educate him, train him and make something of him. She has been doing her best for thousands of years and will succeed in the end.

The time is coming when husbands will be what they ought to be. In that good time man will realize that as one drop of salt water tells all that there is to be known about the Pacific Ocean, so ONE good woman tells all that there is to be known about all the good women in the world, and that ONE good woman is worth studying and APPRECIATING all of his life.

Even now, with all of man's imperfections, marriage offers something that nothing else offers, something that you can't find on the stage, in the movies, in professional life or anywhere except IN MARRIAGE, and that is the JOY OF CREATION.

Divine Power created the first man and woman. Woman has created the human race ever since. Unfortunately for her she has not been able to "rest on the seventh day." She has had to work usually six days and also on the seventh day, to work every day and all day long.

But she has had the consciousness of CREATIVE POWER, and that is the only thing worth while. A woman must often slave for her child, but she has seen it grow, she has the joy of possession, it is HER CREATION.

A man slaves in his garret, produces something worth while and is content with that creation.

Newton, greatest mathematical mind ever born on earth, was content to work at his dull government job while he thought out his mathematical problems.

Then came the day when his long calculations were to demonstrate FOREVER the truth of his formula, "Directly as the mass, inversely as the square of the distance."

When the figures indicated the correctness of his formula he was so agitated, filled with such intense happiness, that he could not proceed and called upon an assistant to finish the calculation for him.

Balboa was happy when he saw the Pacific, Columbus when he saw signs of land floating on the water, Halley when he was able to foretell the return of his comet, Washington when the British had to get out, Foch when the Kaiser's forces came to take his orders.

But happiness that those men possessed belongs in a thousand times greater degree to the humblest mother who holds in her arms her new-born child and hears its first feeble cry.

Young woman, pick out your man, not too old, not too young. Demand health, kindness upon which you and your children will depend, good intentions. Then GET MARRIED. Don't worry about cash. Don't expect perfection.

"Summer Business"

Suggestion for New England "Boosters"

Thousands upon thousands of Americans from all over the United States will visit Philadelphia this coming Summer to take in the Sesquicentennial celebration, which opens on June 1st.

The city has appropriated $8,000,000 of municipal funds toward the celebration and the Federal government will spend several millions more.

We give the show what used to be called a "free notice" in order to bring its possibilities to the attention of our New England "boosters." Reduced round-trip fares are to be established from practically every point in the United States. If the call of old New England is made plain enough, great numbers of these visitors will take advantage of the opportunity to lengthen their journeys.

The coming season in this part of the country is going to be more interesting, more enjoyable, than any Summer within a generation. Pageantry will do its part, for Stoughton and Methuen will be celebrating their two hundredth and Salem its three hundredth birthday.

Local celebrations entirely apart, however, the man from the West, the Middle West or the Southwest who brings his family to Philadelphia this Summer will travel a day's journey further to see Nantucket, or Cape Cod, or the Maine shore, or the New Hampshire lakes and mountains if he is reminded—and reminded again, perhaps—of their proximity.

The way to GET this profitable Summer business is to go after it; and NOW is the time to plan the campaign.

TRACK OF FIREBALL IN THE SKY

By Garrett P. Serviss

Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest

I QUOTE the following letter from an amateur astronomer in New York City because it gives an admirable example of what may be done by anybody, without an observatory or any special astronomical equipment, in helping professional astronomers to solve the fascinating mystery of the bombardment of the earth by meteors and fire-balls coming from outer space. It shows, too, by the little chart accompanying it, how such observations should be made and recorded.

His Story

"On Tuesday, December 25, 1923, at 11:30 p. m., I had just reached the roof of my house to take in the sights of the heavens with my three-inch telescope, when out of the sky dropped a huge fireball, in the vicinity of Sirius, and I must say it was a awe-inspiring sight.

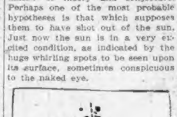
"I've seen quite a few meteors and fireballs, as I am a devoted student of the heavens and spend at least two hours observing on nights that the weather and atmospheric conditions are good.

"This fireball seemed to be of enormous size, and was the largest I have seen in four years. I have drawn an illustration (reproduced below) of the fireball and its course as seen by me.—ROY ADAMS."

Mr. Adams has made a remarkably accurate representation of the chief stars of the constellation Canis Major (Greater Dog), of which the brilliant "dog star," Sirius, is the leader, and across which the fireball moved in nearly a north-to-south direction.

Such a chart at a glance gives to the astronomer, when combined with the date, hour and place of observation, much of the information that he needs for calculating the real course of the celestial projectile during the few seconds—for it could not have been more—that it was passing through the atmosphere.

The origin of these wonderful missiles, which shoot through the atmosphere at great heights and with enormous velocity, is still a matter of theory and conjecture. Perhaps one of the most probable hypotheses is that which supposes them to have shot out of the sun. Just now the sun is in a very excited condition, as indicated by the huge whirling spots to be seen upon its surface, sometimes conspicuous to the naked eye.



The Track of a Fireball

In the neighborhood of these spots the spectroscope often shows glowing gaseous masses that shoot up from the sun with tremendous speed. Some observations have indicated that the speed in "eruptive prominences" may occasionally be sufficient to overcome the immediate control of the sun, so that the ejected masses rush away across the orbits of the planets, or fall into orbits of their own, henceforth performing regular revolutions around the sun.

Other Facts.

But, there are other facts about the composition and physical state of meteorites which seem rather to favor another theory of their origin; that, namely, which assumes that they are fragments of an exploded planet, which have been wandering for ages in the solar system, and a few of which every year come within the gravitational control of the earth, and thus are brought down.

ON "HONESTY"

The GREATEST thing
One can BE in life
Is—HONEST.
Is is also the HARDEST,
And for SOME reason
It SEEMS harder
For WOMEN to be Quite honest than MEN.
Men, it seems, have NOTHING TO LOSE by Being honest with
EACH OTHER, and Everything to GAIN.

And a man who IS Quite honest with a
WOMAN is a
STRONG position, too.
MEN think honesty
Is a NECESSITY.
WOMEN regard it as a
LUXURY. They feel
They CAN do without
IT, if NECESSARY.
For the ONLY women
Who can AFFORD to be Quite honest are those Who have NEVER been DECEIVED.

LISTEN, WORLD!

Reg. U. S. Patent Office

By Elsie Robinson

I BELIEVE in you.

I am not saying this lightly, nor in a sentimental outburst.

I have a good reason for saying it, and I am saying it with sincerity. I will tell you what that reason is.

Eight years ago I began these intimate talks to the public—to you. When I began several veteran newspaper men said to me: "Now, Elsie, remember, you've got to talk down to people. You must always remember that people are sheep—although, of course, you must never tell them so. They never reason—they just move in flocks. They have sheep instincts and sheep love. They like to be flattered and amused, even bullied discreetly. But you must never demand that they think. The majority of people who read newspapers can't think. So the thing for you to do is just to jolly 'em along. Don't pull any high hat stuff on them. Don't expect any originality or sympathy out of them. Remember, they're just circulation and treat them accordingly."

But that advice didn't go over big with me. I did not debate it outwardly, but inwardly I resented it. I resented it because it really was a slur on me, myself. For I was not of the classes. I was of the masses. I was very poor. I had little education. My only friends were working people. And I felt a deep anger when these well educated men told me that we—I and my friends—were "sheep." I did not believe it. But it would have been worse than useless to argue it. So I kept my own counsel and started writing.

But I did not start writing to sheep.

I started writing to people.

I started writing to people like myself—people with the same hunger and rebellion within them—people who hungered for beauty and truth, for strength and wisdom, for power and peace. People who loved children and homes and books. People who wanted to trust and help other people. People who wanted to find God.

That's the way I started to write to you.

It wasn't really writing, it was talking. Sometimes, I think it was praying.

And never once have you failed to understand. Never have you failed to take the subject and assimilate it and make it the richer for your adjustment to it.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By Helen Rowland

"A MAN who can't fool his own wife, can never fool a jury of twelve strange women!" remarks that cheerful philosopher, O. O. McIntyre.

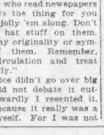
Oh, CAN'T he!
And why not, Mr. McIntyre.

* * *

A man can fool a few women all of the time, and a lot of women most of the time—but not even love, himself, could manage to fool the same woman in the same way more than three-quarters of the time! Juno had his number!



Helen Rowland

It is far easier to start twelve women guessing than it is to keep one woman guessing.

* * *

After a cold bath, a shave and a haircut, a man can step into a courtroom, looking the soul of injured innocence—but the woman who had to turn on the cold shower and clean his safety-razor gets a different vision.

* * *

Oh, yes, a man can fool twelve strange women, who never had his number; but Love gives a woman second-sight!

But, no man can fool the woman who LOVES him!

MEDBURY SAYS

By John P. Medbury

THERE'S only one way for a woman to have a husband and be a widow at the same time, and that's by marrying a traveling salesman.

SHE can have every privilege of a wife and enjoy all the comforts of a dowager.

BUT, of course, a husband in the home is worth two on the road.

ONE fellow has been away so long he forgot he was married.

IT took two lawyers to jog his memory.

HE'S been traveling for six years, and every time he gets a letter from his wife he travels faster.

HE knew he had a wife because it said so on his marriage license.

HE always carried the license with him. He was very fond of reading funny papers.

HIS wife has only seen him twice in five years, and both times when he was home he went out and played golf.

CANE LEAST HARMFUL OF ALL PETS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

IT is said that the use of canes is being discontinued.

Time was when canes were fashionable and all gentlemen carried them.

The use of a cane implied a certain idleness or lack of other employment for the hands, which was considered a mark of distinction among the upper classes.

I carry a cane, however, when I go out and do so not from a desire to be thought exclusive or aristocratic, but because I naturally like a cane.

Canes have much superiority over other pets. They neither bark nor meow. They do not have to be fed nor cleaned and they always stay where they are put.

Sometimes you forget where you put them, but that is not the canes' fault, but yours.

There is a certain companionship in a walking stick and I find that one can develop a real affection for it.

It always waits for you loyally in the coatroom until you have finished your dinner.

It furnishes something besides your hat to hand to the butler at the door.

And then it gives you a sort of companionship, a sense of comfort that is found in no other pet.

It is reported that a Dutch author was so fond of his cane that he always took it to dinner with him and frequently gave it a ride with him in his automobile.

One has a certain sense of lonesomeness when one has misplaced his cane, which shows that it meets a real want.

Canes may not be used to knock off the flowers as you pass by nor may they be used to conceal a sword and become a sort of lethal weapon. They are simply good to have around. They are something to take hold of and to cherish.

One has to like something, and a cane is less trouble than a woman, to say nothing of a dog or a cat.

There are all kinds of pets in the world; some have even made pets of lions, snakes and orang-outangs.

Of all pets the cane is the least harmful. Doubtless it is a weakness, but it can hardly rise to the dignity of a bad habit, although one may love a cane as others love a bad habit, which is very much.

DISPUTES ON AMUSEMENTS SPOIL THE PLAYTIME

In many homes there are disputes as to how the long evenings are to be spent.

Friend husband has no use for the line of enjoyment which interests Mrs. Wife and vice versa.

Neither has the courage to pull out of it and go in alone for the particular form of amusement desired, so the evenings are spent wrangling.

Tiring of constant quarrels one or the other gives in and with lukewarm interest tolerates the other's fancy in entertainment.

Husbands are persuaded to leave the easy chair and a good book to attend social functions for him.

Or the good wife is dragged out to moving pictures or public dinners enlivened by jazzy music, she abhors.

It isn't much of a home where married folks are happier out of it.

If you have a home why don't you make it such a wonderful home that each member of the family would rather stay home than go out?

This means a corner for each, where there is opportunity and perfect freedom to enjoy one's natural bent.
